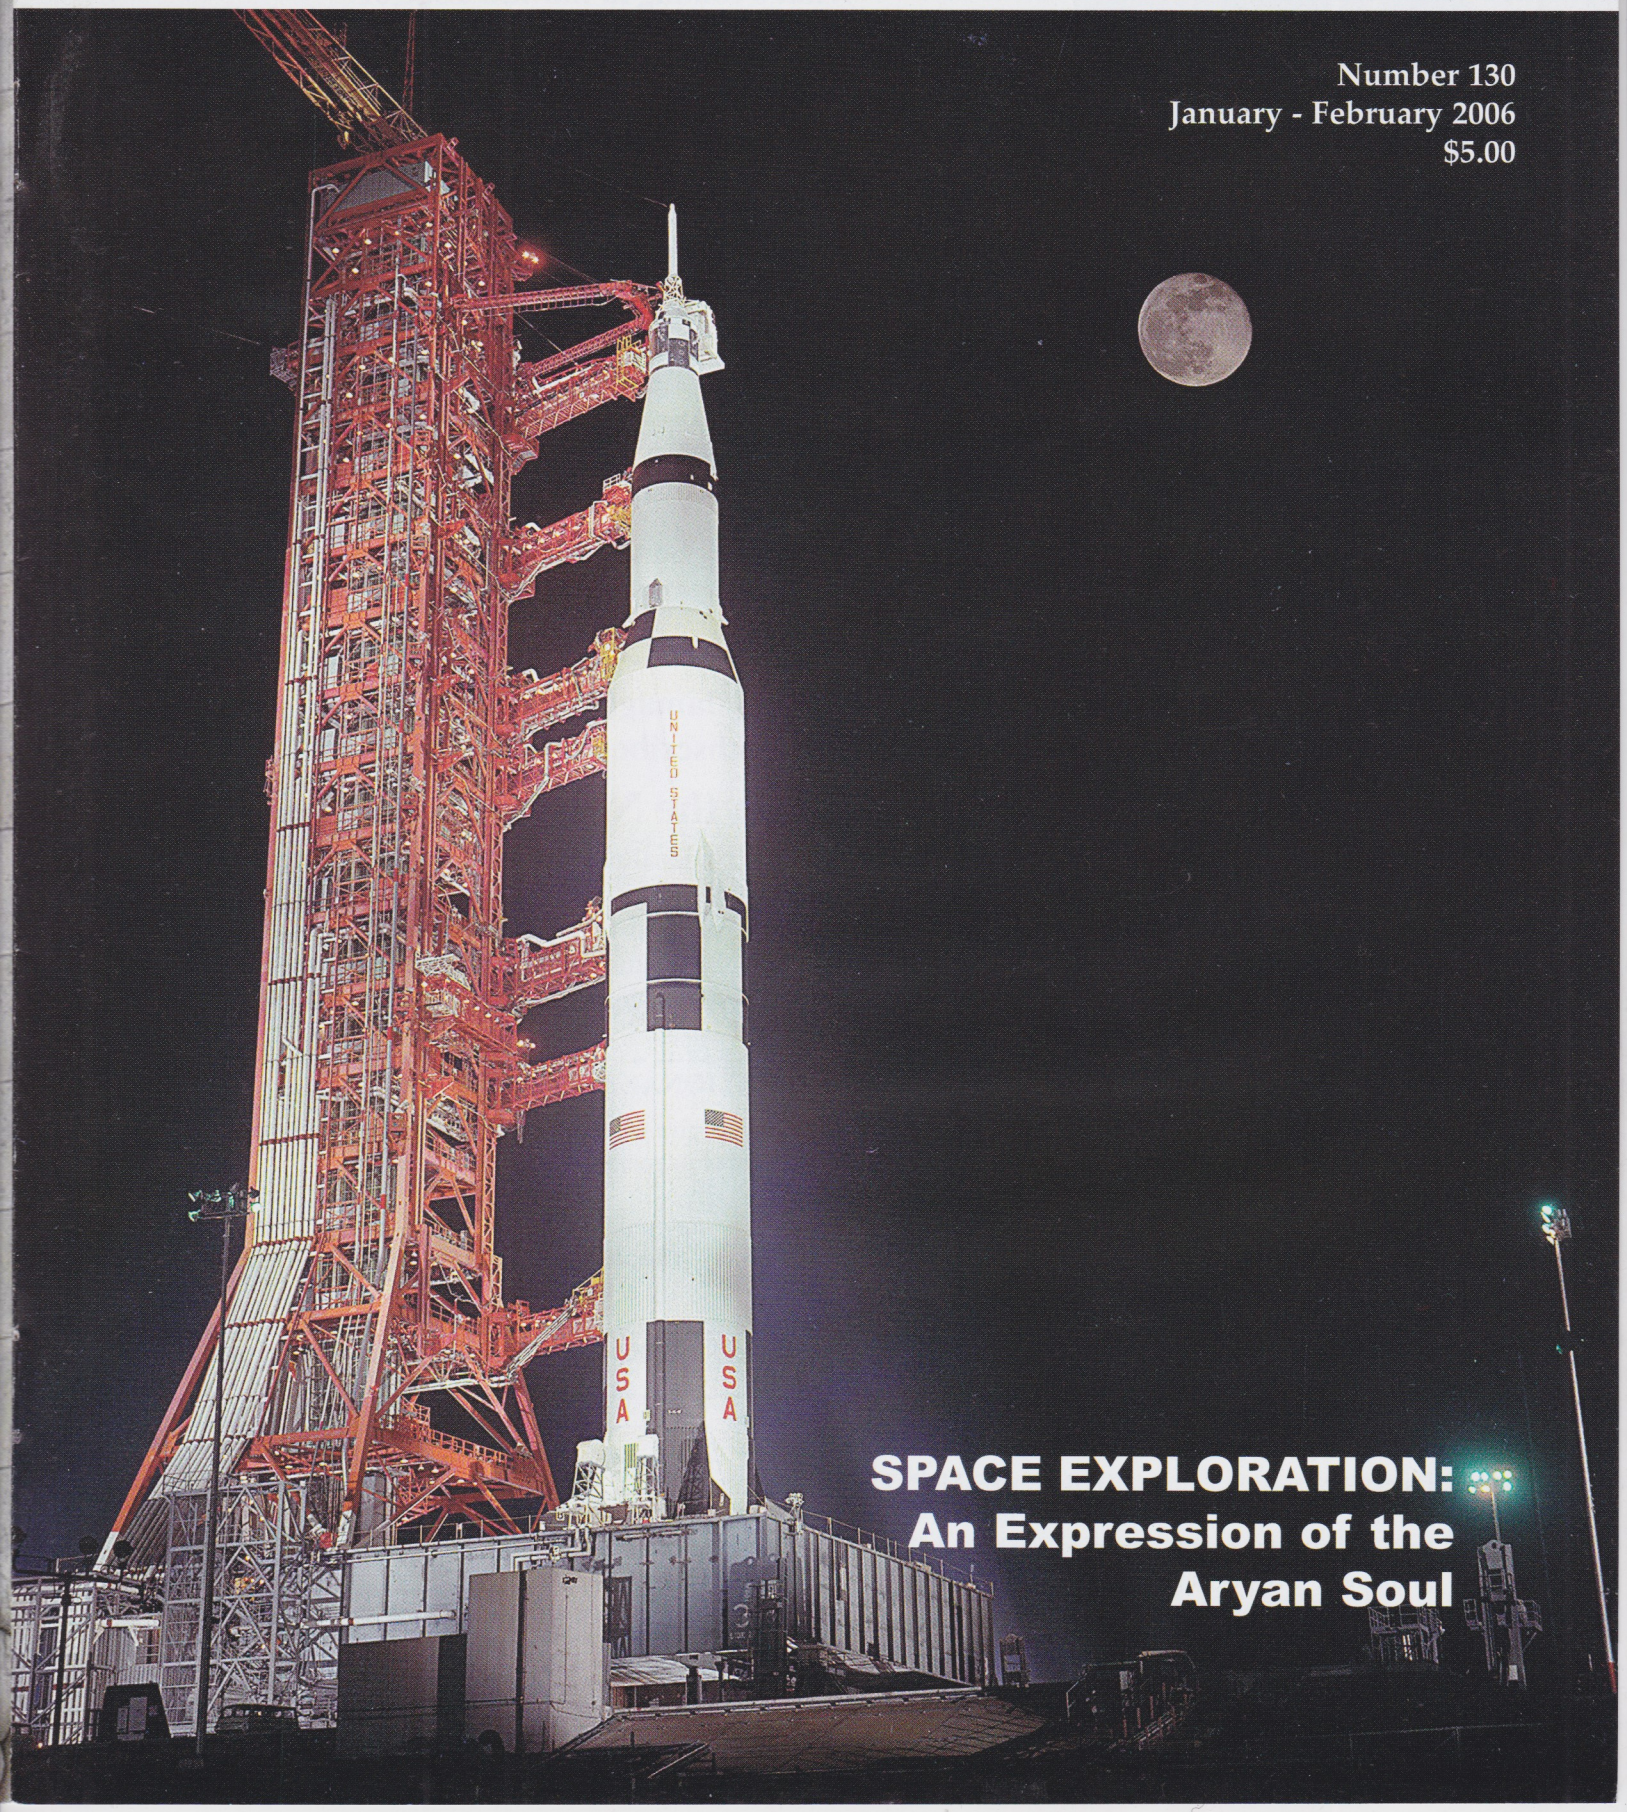
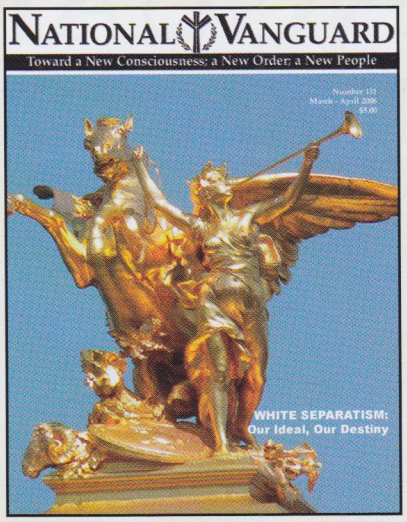
NATIONAL VANGUARD

Toward a New Consciousness; a New Order; a New People

Number 130
January - February 2006
$5.00



SPACE EXPLORATION: An Expression of the Aryan Soul



National Vanguard Magazine: News for Whites, by Whites!

What's coming in the next issue of National Vanguard magazine:

 White Separatism: Our Ideal, Our Destiny
 Heroes of our Race
 Being a Racial Revolutionary
And our usual features:
 Situation Serious but not Terminal * The Best White Nationalist Fiction * US News * International News AND MORE

Don't miss an issue! Subscribe Today! Subscription prices: $22 for six issues (one year) in the United States; $40 for two years; $30 via surface mail in Canada; $56 for two years; Foreign: $40 for one year, $76 for two years.

Subscription Form National Vanguard Magazine

Name:_____ Address: _____

_____ State: _____ Zip Code: _____

Country: _____ I enclose $_____ check/postal order/international money order made out to National Vanguard Books for my subscription. Send subscriptions to National Vanguard Books, Post Office Box 330, Hillsboro, WV 24946, USA

Make a copy of this page to avoid damaging your issue of NATIONAL VANGUARD MAGAZINE or subscribe on-line at www.natvan.com

Would you like to join the National Alliance?

Founded by the late Dr. William Pierce (left), the National Alliance is the world's premier pro-White organization. We are working to secure the future of our race through massive political outreach programs, literature distributions, our weekly American Dissident Voices broadcast, Web-based initiatives, cadre building and other activities, all with the ultimate goal in mind of creating a government and state which will be by Whites, for Whites. If you are interested in helping us in this task, please join and contribute towards our vital work.

Application for membership : NATIONAL ALLIANCE

I am a White person of good moral character, with no ineligibility. I am in agreement with the goals and the program of the National Alliance, and I want to participate in the Alliance's effort to build a secure and healthy future for my race by becoming a member. I will pay the monthly dues I have indicated below. I am enclosing my first month's dues and my $15 application fee with this application.

Signature of Applicant:_____

Date: _____ CHOICE OF MONTHLY DUES LEVEL: The applicant should indicate his dues level in the space below, choosing a whole-dollar value (minimum: $10 per month) as high as his means permit.
Amount of monthly dues: _____

May we give your name and address/telephone to a trusted member in your area? [ ] Yes [ ] No

Were you contacted or given information about the National Alliance by a member? [ ] Yes [ ] No
If "yes" what is the member's name?_____

_____

If "no" how did you learn about the National Alliance?

_____

Name _____
Street _____ City_____
_____ State _____ Zip_____
Date of Birth _____ Sex _____ Marital Status_____
Occupation _____ Telephone_____
E-mail address (Optional):_____
Alternatively, you may join on-line at www.natall.com

NATIONAL ALLIANCE * POST OFFICE BOX 90 HILLSBORO * WV 24946* USA

NATIONAL VANGUARD

Founded in 1970 by Dr. William L. Pierce
Published by National Vanguard Books, Inc., a non-profit corporation,
Post Office Box 330, Hillsboro,
WV 24946, USA
Publisher: Shaun Walker
Managing Editor: Richard Preston
Circulation: Patrick Martin
Email: editorial@natvan.com

Note from the Editor

TOO FULL

We suppose we should be happy. This is the first edition of the new look National Vanguard magazine from which we have had to drop excellent articles and hold them over to the next issue. It was a gut-wrenching decision trying to decide what should go into this edition, as we have had so many superb contributions.

In this issue we have had to hold over the fiction feature, and the first in our series "Heroes of our Race" because of space pressure. Both these will feature in #131, so don't worry, they, and the other fine articles will all still appear.

To save space in future, we are thinking of moving the "news" section out completely, and leaving it up to the Web Site, www.natallnews.com, to cover. Reader feedback on this idea would be greatly appreciated.

All contents © copyright 2006 by National Vanguard Books, Inc. Opinions expressed herein are not necessarily those of National Vanguard Books. Please write for prices on bulk quantities for resale or distribution. We welcome manuscripts or articles: please send them to the address above.

The symbol which appears in the NATIONAL VANGUARD logotype is the Life Rune. It comes from an ancient alphabet, or futhark, used in northern Europe for many centuries before the general adoption of the Roman alphabet. The Life Rune signifies life, creation, birth, rebirth, and renewal. It expresses in a single symbol the raison d'etre of NATIONAL VANGUARD and of the movement of Aryan renewal.

NATIONAL VANGUARD

Number 130 January - February 2006

CONTENTS

Cover Story
Space Exploration: An Expression of the Aryan Soul By John Clarke 4

Feature
Israel: International Criminal Headquarters 13

What is the National Alliance? 16

Columnist:
Bob Whitaker – Situation Terminal . . . But Not Serious 18

News Feature:
The North Wind has Begun to Blow By Shaun Walker 22

Feature:
Hurricane Katrina and The Turner Diaries: A Few Startling Parallels By Kevin Jones 26

International News:
- 3,000 Russian White Nationalists Rally in Moscow 29
- Editor in Chief of Austria's Public Broadcaster Attends Freedom Party Ceremony for Luftwaffe War Ace 29
- White Nationalist Unity in Europe 29
- Spain: 1,500 Whites March Against Non-White Immigration Under the Falangist Banner 29
- Over 20% of all Violent Street Crime in Helsinki Committed by Somalis 29

US News
- Importing Poverty: Hispanic Housing Crisis in NYC 30
- University of Colorado Starts "Center for Western Civilization" 30
- AIDS Sweeps Through Hispanics in America 30
- 24,268 Heterosexual Women Died From AIDs in 2004 30
- The Ten Most 'Dangerous' and 'Safest' Cities in America - and their Racial Make-up 30

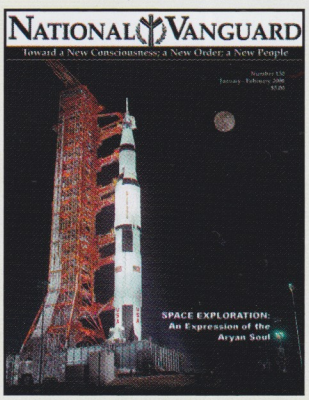
Our Cover:
Apollo 17, the only night launch of the Apollo moon project, December 7, 1972.



NATIONAL VANGUARD
Toward a New Consciousness: a New Order: a New People
SPACE EXPLORATION:
An Expression of the
Aryan Soul

SPACE EXPLORATION:

An Expression of the Aryan Soul

by John Clarke

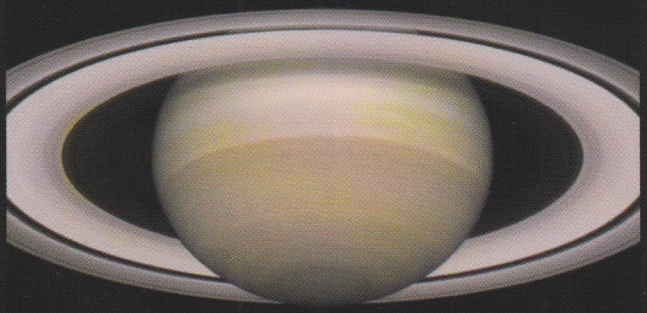
All background pictures to this article are deep space photographs taken by the Hubble Space Telescope, one of the most understated White technological achievements since the Apollo moon landings.

In Norse mythology, space was explained in one of the Poetic Edda as the Ginnungagap, the grinning gap between the world of ice, Niflheim, and the world of fire, Muspelheim. It was here in Ginnungagap that the fire and ice met, and where the first god, Búri, who was the father of Borr, in turn the father of the first Æsir, Odin, was created.

Not only did the ancient Whites have an awareness of the concept of space, but also ascribed Gods to the planets: Sol, the goddess of the sun, who every day, rides through the sky on her chariot. Sol is chased during the day by Skoll, a wolf that wants to devour her. Solar eclipses signify that Skoll has almost caught up to her. Sol's brother, the moon, Mani, is chased by Hati, another wolf. The earth is protected from the full heat of the sun by Svalin, who stands between the earth and Sol.

And so the stories were told, all containing some elements of truth, but all remained speculation until the enlightened Aryan concept of disciplined, scientific truth-seeking was born. The basis of science is proof or evidence - which is not to be confused with certainty, because nothing is certain. Also central to the scientific method is a system of logic and deliberate skepticism to search for fallacies in arguments. The Italian astronomer, Galileo, regarded this as a sort of "dialogue with nature."

Aryans such as Kepler and Galileo looked to the heavens and exchanged ideas, eager to see which idea best described reality, always critical of ideas that contradicted known facts. In European intellectual circles, fable and superstition were gradually replaced with truth, particularly after the invention of the telescope, which did much to fire the Aryan dream of using science to explore the unknown.



Saturn: Lord of the Rings - The telescope has revealed planets to be places like the Earth, which can be studied and should be explored

The moon was found to be pitted like a hunk of cheese. Planets were discovered to be worlds like our own; all destinations for future exploration. It was in this time that an Englishman, Sir Isaac Newton, is said to have sat under an apple tree, gazing at the moon, when an apple dislodged and fell on his head. "Why," he wondered, "does the apple fall and the moon stay up there?" Galileo was first to note that objects are always pulled towards the center of the Earth (gravity), but it was Newton who proved that this same force was also responsible for the moon staying "up there", and for movement of all planets and moons in the Solar System.

After much logical reasoning about his falling apple, the eventual result was Newton's simple formula that accurately described the gravitational force, and even how to escape from gravity. After that, dreams of space and space travel took on a practical meaning that was measurable and technically attainable.

Great minds built on this dream. Jules Verne wrote of men being shot to the moon inside a giant bullet. H.G. Wells wrote of creatures from Mars invading our planet. The moon and Mars were revealed to be places that should be visited by man, and Aryan minds dreamed of traveling to these faraway islands in the sky, using science and technology to make dreams come true.

On June 4 1783, the brothers Jacques Etienne and Joseph Montgolfier, French papermakers, launched their first balloon, made of cloth lined with paper and filled with smoke. That September, they launched a second balloon, this one carrying a duck, a rooster and a sheep. The balloon stayed aloft about eight minutes and delivered the animals safely back to earth. Five months later, another Frenchman, Jean Francois Pilatre de Rozier, ascended to an altitude of about 80 feet in the first manned balloon flight. Aryan man had taken to the skies at last in a heavier than air machine.

continued on next page

continued from previous page

White Technological Breakthroughs

Eventually, as often happens in science, the time was ripe for radical improvement of technology. The following three most important pioneers independently conceived similar ideas and laid the theoretical and practical foundations for future space flight.

* Hermann Oberth of Germany developed much of the modern theory for rocket and spaceflight. He paved the way for the dramatic German superiority in rocket propulsion during the 1930s. A young man, Wernher von Braun, assisted Oberth in liquid-fueled rocket motor tests.
* The Russian scientist Konstantin E. Tsiolkovsky designed propulsion systems for rockets and conceived the idea of multistage rockets.
* Robert H. Goddard, an American scientist and inventor, independently developed ideas about spaceflight. He built the world's first liquid-propellant rocket in 1926.

The First Step into Space

During the late 1930s and the war years, Germany made great achievements in rocket propulsion with the liquid-propellant V-2 rocket and Me-163 rocket-powered airplane. No other country at the time had anything comparable. The V2 was also the first man-made object to leave the Earth's atmosphere and enter space.

The rocket that has drawn most attention is undoubtedly the German V2, of which 3,172 were operationally launched in World War II. Contrary to popular belief, London was not the sole target of the V2 offensive, and of the total number launched, "only" 1,402 were actually aimed at Britain. The majority (1664) were aimed at Allied targets in Belgium, while 76 were fired at France, 19 at Maastricht in the Netherlands, and 11 at Allied forces in the German city of Remagen.

The leader of the team that developed this advanced machine was the famous German scientist, Wernher von Braun. In 1945, at the end of the war, von Braun and his team had a difficult choice to make. Generally, they were afraid of the already proven barbaric Soviet Army.

From experience in the last war they knew the French would treat them like slaves, and the British had already bankrupted their empire by driving the war against Germany, so they no longer had reserves to afford a rocket program. That left von Braun with no choice but the Americans.

Using forged papers, von Braun commandeered a train and, along with 500 of his staff, set off through war-torn Germany to surrender to U.S. forces. The Americans, on realizing the importance of these engineers, went to Peenemunde and looted all V-2 rocket parts they could find, before destroying the facilities to forestall their erstwhile Russian Allies. They shipped over 300 train carloads of looted V-2 parts to the United States. Some of von Braun's production team could not reach the American sector in time, and were captured by the Russians. In addition, many V-2 parts could not be destroyed in time by the U.S. forces, and these were also taken by the Russians.

Operation Paperclip: German Technology Taken to America

At the end of the Second World War both the United States and the Soviet Union were deeply aware of their inadequacies in rocketry, compared to the German Nazi scientists. German rocket scientists were persuaded

continued on page 6

A rare color photograph of a wartime German V2 rocket after its operational launch, December 1944. The V2 became the first man-made object to leave the Earth's atmosphere. This rocket laid the basis for all of man's space exploration since.

SPACE EXPLORATION

These are some of the German scientists co-opted by the USA. Many were essential figures in the US space program. More than 700 German scientists were brought to the US this way, even though many of them were ardent Nazi sympathizers, including Wernher von Braun (who was an SS officer) during the war. (Von Braun is 7th from the right in the front row).

continued from page 5

to immigrate to the United States in a program originally code-named "Operation Overcas," later renamed to "Operation Paperclip." Very few of these scientists were prosecuted for "war crimes", despite the fact that most were members of the German Nazi Party, and some, including Wernher von Braun himself, were high-ranking SS officers. These Germans became the technical backbone of the American rocketry and space program. The Soviet Union's German scientists, along with trainloads of V2 parts missed by the Americans, became the foundation of the Soviet rocketry and space program. It soon became a race between captured Soviet-German scientists and captured American-German scientists. While competent American and Russian experts existed, it is no secret that, without their German "imports," any space race would have been a national embarrassment to both countries.

The Race to Put Satellites into Space

Both the US and Soviet Union used their captured German V-2 rockets for a variety of purposes. The first program to do scientific exploration of the upper atmosphere was carried out from 1946 to 1951, when the U.S. Army launched about 60 V2s in New Mexico.

In place of the warhead a payload of scientific instruments were installed. The Aerobee and Viking sounding rocket programs of the US navy reached a height of about 214 kilometers.

Around 1957, there were many cooperative programs worldwide in which sounding rockets were launched to gain scientific knowledge of the upper atmosphere and space above the atmosphere. Results included:

* The detection of X rays and particles above the Earth.
* Photographs of the sun's ultraviolet spectrum from above the Earth's atmosphere.
* Details of high atmospheric temperature, pressure, molecular composition, and density.
* Identify regions of turbulence at various heights in the atmosphere.
* Dynamic testing of prototype instruments ultimately to be used in orbital satellites.

The useful lifetime of a sounding rocket is brief; perhaps only five or ten minutes, but this is the best known method of taking measurements between 40 and 160 kilometers above the earth; too high for balloons or aircraft, and too low for orbiting satellites.

The Soviet Satellite Program

During one of Stalin's numerous "purges" in 1937/1938, Russian aerospace engineers were thrown into the Soviet prison system. However, after Stalin realized the value of aeronautical engineers in preparing for war with the Germans, many of them were retrieved from incarceration to help the Red Army develop new weapons.

Sergei P. Korolev – the Russian who, along with captured Germans and their V2 equipment, laid the foundation for the initial Soviet venture into space, which achieved many firsts, including the first satellite, the first man in space, and the first spacecraft to reach the moon.

The most important of these was undoubtedly Sergei P. Korolev. After the war he was assisted by captured V2s and captured German scientists. Under the leadership of Korolev, these Germans and their captured equipment formed the backbone of the Russian space program. Although Korolev was a competent engineer, his true value lay in his management skills. In the same way that von Braun built and encouraged his team, Korolev inspired his co-workers and German prisoners to lead the world in the space race for several years.

continued on next page

Later the Germans scientists were repatriated and the Russian Space Program gradually fell behind, never to recover the lead again. In the early 1960s, Korolev campaigned to send a manned Soviet rocket to the Moon. The Luna 1, 2, and 3 rockets followed. In 1962, Korolev's design team began work on the N-1 launch vehicle, also based on von Braun's V2, and a counterpart to the American Saturn V. The N-1 never made a successful flight.

On 4 October 1957, Korolev's R-7 ICBM launched Sputnik 1, the world's first artificial satellite. Sputnik 1 was a sphere with an instrument package weighing 184 pounds. This started a chain of events that we now know as the "Space Race." The first US satellite was launched on January 31, 1958.

In the frantic race that followed, more than 5,000 successful launches of various satellites, probes and test rockets of all varieties followed.

The American Satellite Program

After arriving in the United States, von Braun and his team directed high-altitude firings of V-2 rockets at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. (For several years captured German scientists could not leave the base without a military escort, and they would often refer to themselves as "PoPs," or "Prisoners of Peace"). Von Braun was, however, promoted to project director of the guided missile development unit at Fort Bliss, Texas.

In 1956, von Braun's team became the first to send living creatures into space. A V2 rocket, carrying fruit flies, was launched from White Sands in 1946. In 1950, von Braun's team was transferred to Huntsville, Alabama, where they worked on ballistic rockets called Redstone, Jupiter C, Juno, and later the Saturn 1B.

In January 1958, a version of von Braun's Redstone rocket, called Jupiter-C, put Explorer 1 into orbit, which detected the Van Allen belts (a plasma, or charged particles, surrounding the earth and trapped there by our planet's magnetic field). In December 1958, the world's first communications satellite was launched on an Atlas rocket. A taped Christmas message from then president Dwight Eisenhower was broadcast from space on this satellite. NASA was established on July 29, 1958. One day later, von Braun's 50th Redstone rocket was successfully fired off Johnson Island in the South Pacific. Two years later, Von Braun and his team were transferred to the new Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama, where the German became the center's first Director, holding the position from July 1960 to February 1970.

The First Aryan in Space: Yuri Gagarin. He entered earth orbit on April 12, 1961 in Vostok-1. The launch rocket was based on von Braun's V-2.

White Men in Space

Finally, just under two decades after the V2 rocket had first penetrated space, the ancient Aryan dream of manned spaceflight became a reality. In April 1961, Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin flew into the history books by becoming the first man to journey beyond the earth's atmosphere and the first to enter earth's orbit.

The very next month, American astronaut Alan Shepard became the first American in space, riding into the history books on a new version of von Braun's Redstone rocket, called the Jupiter-C. Ironically, the U.S. could easily have beaten the Soviet Union into space if the von Braun team in Alabama (the Army Ballistic Missile Agency - ABMA) had been allowed to attempt a satellite launch with the Jupiter-C rocket. A satellite could have been launched by a Jupiter-C in August 1956 if given the go ahead by U.S. government officials.

The Eisenhower administration, however, wanted the first U.S. satellite to be launched by a civilian developed rocket instead of a military missile. The civilian project, however, flopped when its rocket failed to launch in December 1957. The Eisenhower administration then turned to the ABMA, and von Braun were asked to launch a backup satellite as soon as possible. When the Jupiter-C was finally used to launch the Explorer I satellite in January 1958, its Jupiter-C launch vehicle was renamed the Juno I.

The Redstone rocket was also used in launch all of the Mercury space program vehicles, which included the second American in Space, Gus Grissom.

continued on page 8

SPACE EXPLORATION

continued from page 7

The Redstone rocket was also later used to launch Australia's first satellite, Wresat, in 1967.

The struggle for the lead in space exploration between the Soviets and America continued. For a while, it seemed as if the Soviets were winning. Incredibly, the Soviets were actually the first to reach the moon with unmanned rockets as early as 1959, with their Luna program.

There were 20 successful Soviet missions to the moon, which included the first rocket to leave the earth's gravity (Luna-1, 1959); the first rocket to reach the moon (Luna-2, 1959); the first photographs of the hidden side of the moon (Luna-3, 1959); the first hard landing on the moon's surface (Luan-5 1965) and the first soft landing on the moon (Luna-9, 1966); the first lunar orbiter (Luna 10, 1966).

Other Soviet firsts included the first woman in space (Valentina Tereshkova in Vostok 6, 1963); the first space walk (Alexei Leonov, Voshkod 2, 1965); and the first soft landing on Venus (Venera-4, 1967).

However, the American space program gradually began to pull ahead, and finally took the lead, never to be seriously challenged again, with the Apollo project to send a manned expedition to the moon.

White Men Walk the Moon

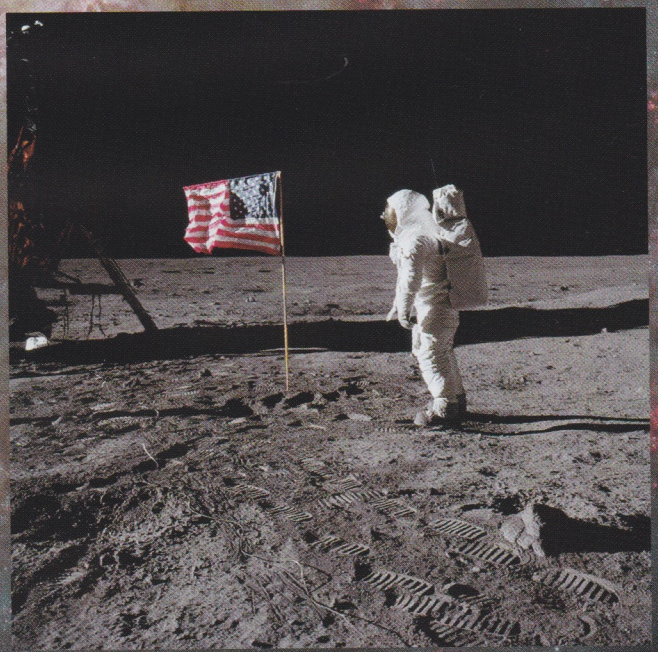
At the beginning of the 1960s, President John F. Kennedy called for a moon landing "within the decade." Von Braun was asked to lead the program to design and build the rocket. The "German Team," as they were already known, did as they were told, and their rocket, the Saturn V, was the vehicle that was used to win the race to the moon in 1969.

The Saturn V rocket is still today the most powerful machine ever built by man. It stood some 353 feet tall and, fully laden, weighed 2,725 tons.

On July 16, 1969 a Saturn V rocket launched the crew of Apollo 11: Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin, and Michael Collins. Von Braun's team had succeeded in creating the greatest technical achievement in human history: a manned moon landing. Around the world radio amateurs and professionals pointed their parabolic dish antennas directly at the moon, and listened in to radio signals and speech from the Apollo crew. As the astronauts from Apollo 11 erected the Laser Reflector

continued on next page

The Swastika in Space: Dr. Wernher von Braun and Dr. Kurt Debus, both former Nazis, pictured with their greatest invention, the Saturn V rocket.



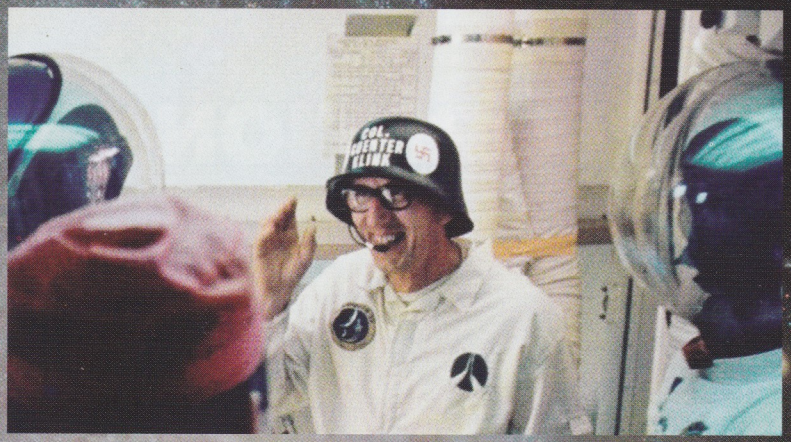
White Men Walk on the Moon: Second man on the moon, Edwin Aldrin, salutes the U.S. flag - 1969. Because there is no air on the moon, the flag was specially constructed with pre-sprung wire to make it appear to wave.

continued from previous page

experiment, scientists around the world were for the first time able to accurately measure the distance from the Earth to the Moon, to within 6 inches, using laser beams.

Some 840 pounds of moon rocks brought back were distributed among countries and universities around the world. These rocks were eagerly studied by hundreds of academics and their students, and determined to be much older than any rock ever found on Earth, an age of 4,600,000,000 years! Geological and other knowledge was gathered in a multitude of experiments, all to satisfy the centuries-old Aryan desire for truth and knowledge.

Over the course of the Apollo program, six teams of U.S. astronauts, all Whites, explored the surface of our moon. Many firsts were achieved, including the first wheeled vehicle to be driven around on the moon's surface, and, amusingly, the first (and to date, only) time that a man played golf on the moon.



The Pad Führer: A German scientist, Günter Wendt, who was a Luftwaffe night fighter pilot in World War II, was in charge of the 'White Room', a cubicle at the top of launch pads of the Mercury, Gemini, and Apollo programs. In the picture above, Wendt poses with a swastika-inscribed German helmet while greeting the Apollo 14 crew. Toleration of the swastika helmet at NASA was de facto recognition of the role played in the American space program by Nazi rocket scientists. One of Wendt's prime responsibilities was that of crew safety. Because of a change in awarded contracts, Wendt was replaced at the start of the Apollo-1 mission. The tragic results shocked the world when it was learned of the death of three astronauts during a test, when fire broke out and the crew could not escape from the command module. The new contractor, by popular demand, re-hired Wendt, and a flawless safety record once again followed during the remainder of Wendt's tenure.

Post-Apollo Space Programs

In June 1971, Soyuz 11 carried three cosmonauts to rendezvous with the Salyut Space Station. After a successful start, this flight ended in the death of all three cosmonauts when a minor malfunction during reentry caused a total air loss in the craft. The Soviet space-station program stagnated for three years after that. The next generation of Soviet Space Stations were Salyuts 6 and 7 (1977 and 1982). The improved Soyuz T spacecraft were more reliable and could carry three crewmen in pressure suits.

After the Apollo program, the Saturn 1B, also developed at Marshall under von Braun's leadership, lifted Skylab, the world's first space station, and its crews into orbit. The final use of von Braun's Saturn was during the historic Apollo-Soyuz mission in 1975, when an Apollo spacecraft linked up with a Russian Soyuz craft.

In February 1986, the Soviets launched a new space station known as Mir. This was a highly automated facility with six docking ports for cargo or manned spacecraft. The Soviet Union also developed a reusable spacecraft called "Buran," which looks and functions much like the U.S. Space Shuttle. Its development was halted by the collapse of the Soviet Union.

NASA selected Rockwell's Space Transportation System Division on July 26, 1972 to design the shuttle. The first Space Shuttle, Columbia, was deployed in April 1981. This was the first re-usable spacecraft ever flown, and at first it showed great promise, though the cost-savings rationale never worked as planned. A marvel of engineering design, the Space Shuttle stands 56 meters high and weighs 2,000,000 kilograms at lift-off, slightly less than a Saturn-V rocket. Its cargo bay measures 4.6 meters in diameter, 20 meters in length and can carry 29,500 kilograms into space and bring up to 14,500 kilograms of goods back to the ground.

Mainly due to disastrous NASA management policies, where safety of crew and shuttle took second place to bureaucracy and red tape, two shuttles were unnecessarily, destroyed in flight, killing all crew on board. By this time, the forces of Political Correctness had come to bear on the space program as well, and at political demand, non-Whites had been included in the Space Shuttle's teams. So it was, that in both Shuttle

continued on page 10

SPACE EXPLORATION

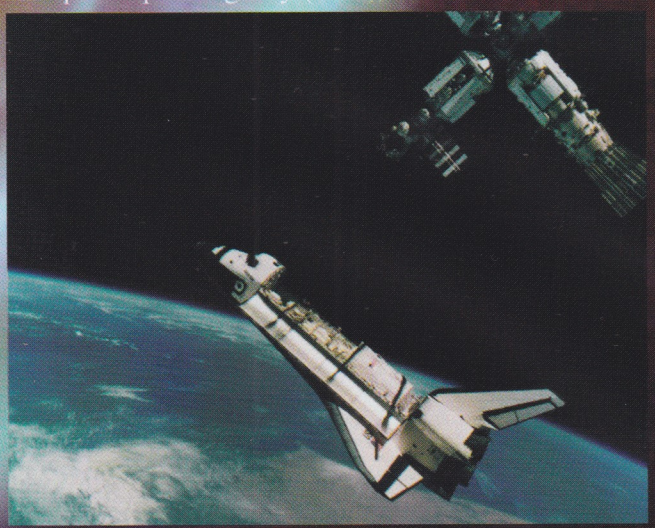
continued from page 9

disasters, non-Whites and Jews were amongst the crew members killed. The crew of the Columbia Shuttle were even called 'diversinauts" instead of "astronauts" by the media because of their forced racial make-up.

Beyond Earth – Where no Man has Gone Before

The Aryan dream, however, looks far beyond the Earth and its moon. Space exploration now explores other planets in our solar system and beyond. The U.S. space probe Mariner passed by Venus in December 1963, and relayed back information, which revealed that this planet is boiling hot (900°F). No human explorers will be landing there anytime soon.

Mars is different, though. Most research on Mars was conducted through the U.S. Mariner and Viking series. Vikings 1 and 2 made successful landings on Mars. Later craft were mobile rovers that could explore, conduct experiments, and send back pictures. Several probes to other planets were launched by the European Space Agency (ESA), which was formed in response the U.S. refusal to guarantee flights for communications satellites that might compete with U.S. telecommunications carriers. ESA developed the Ariane expendable launcher in the 1970s, so that they would enjoy independent launch capability. Ariane has become a serious competitor against the U.S. in launching satellites. Cost-wise Ariane is very competitive against the Space Shuttle. ESA at present has no plans to conduct a manned space program.



The Space Shuttle, here shown with open cargo bay, can transport 29,500 kilograms of goods into near-earth orbit. The Hubble Space Telescope was designed to fit in its cargo bay. Due to a multitude of factors, the Shuttle never lived up to expectations, and the forces of political correctness dictated that NASA draw in non-Whites as both staff and astronauts.

The Red Planet: When visited by space probes, Mars revealed itself to be a world similar to our earth, with mountains, rocks and even water. Unfortunately for would-be travelers, Mars is less hospitable to humans than our Earth's South Pole region, and is extremely cold and with a very thin atmosphere. Yet Mars is perhaps the only planet in our solar system on which a human colony could survive.

Probes have now landed on several planets and moons in our solar system, but the only friendly place to be found is our earth. Elsewhere we find extremes of temperature, pressure, gravity, and poisonous gas. Perhaps the only friendly worlds away from Earth lie among the stars, for we now know that each star is a sun, and that many planets revolve around those suns. Billions of worlds where no man has gone before, in the words of Gene Roddenberry, the creator of much science fiction.

Where does it all end? How many worlds are there to explore? Can we see the edge of the universe? How big is the universe? Fact is – nobody really knows. But the Aryan soul yearns to know more, and several telescopes today fly in Earth orbit. The biggest and best known is the Hubble telescope, named after the brilliant astronomer, Edwin Hubble, who first discovered that the universe was expanding.

continued on next page

continued from previous page

White Technology Delivers Photographs from the Surface of other Planets: The first photo from the surface of Titan, one of the moons of Saturn. The European Space Agency's Huygens probe made a successful landing (in mud) on January 14, 2005. It rains on Titan, but the rain is methane, not water!

Gamma Rays Origins

Until Hubble, scientists could not determine if mysterious, intense bursts of gamma rays originated in our own galaxy, far across the universe, or somewhere in between. The telescope traced these bursts to the outskirts of faint, distant galaxies in the early universe.

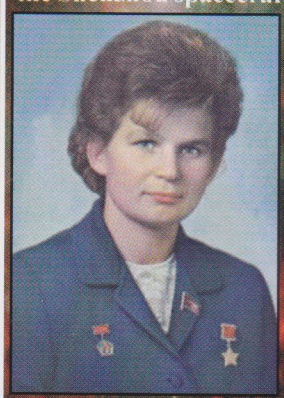
Hubble captured views of the rapidly fading visible-light fireball from the most powerful cosmic explosion recorded to date. For a brief moment the light from the blast was equal to the radiance of 100 million billion stars. The initial explosion began as an intense burst of gamma rays that happened on Jan. 23, 1999.

Searching Deep Space: The Hubble Space Telescope in Earth orbit. Named after the great White astronomer who first discovered that the universe was expanding, the telescope is one of the greatest technological breakthroughs in space exploration since Apollo.

In the early 1990s, Hubble cleared up the mystery of quasars. It confirmed that quasars are actually active galactic nuclei in distant galaxies and are powered by Black Holes. Astronomers believe that a quasar turns on when a massive black hole at the center of a galaxy feeds on gas and stars.

continued on page 12

The Chinese Space Project: Until relatively recently, manned spaceflight has been an exclusively Aryan enclave, with American and Russian dominance built on mostly German technology. In 2003, the Chinese became the first non-White nation to launch a manned spacecraft into Earth orbit; 40 years after the Soviets first achieved this goal. Chinese authorities insist that everything sent into space was developed and made in China. They refer to the Shenzhou spacecraft as "China's self-designed and manned spaceship," and, without question, China deserves recognition for their achievement, being the only non-Aryan nation to ever achieve manned spaceflight.



"China could not have accomplished the feat alone." - Valentina Tereshkova, the first woman in space.

Behind the scenes, however, things are a little more complex. The booster on which the Shenzhau rode into space is almost identical to the Russian Soyuz design, which happened with full knowledge and assistance from Moscow. Chinese engineers upgraded the Soyuz electronics and computer system that manages operations and navigation with more modern technology. According to the Russian cosmonaut, Valentina Tereshkova (the first woman in space), the Chinese could not have accomplished this feat without Russian assistance. Several Chinese astronauts spent months at the Russian Cosmonaut Training Center at Star City near Moscow being trained.

In October 2005, China launched its second manned spacecraft, Shenzhau 5. There is now talk of a Chinese manned moon exploration mission. This is no idle boast. Aryan culture is in a sharp suicidal decline, and although moon-landing technology has existed for almost forty years, the will to pursue and improve on this technology no longer exists in western nations. But this technology is available for any nation with pride and vigor, such as the Chinese, who are proud of their achievements and are prepared to pay for the worldwide respect and prestige that accompanies manned spaceflight.

SPACE EXPLORATION

continued from page 11

The Aryan Soul: Facing the Final Black Hole

The moon landing probably ranks as the single greatest technological achievement of Aryan man. Even today, when talk abounds about an attempt to send man back to the moon, technical experts have acknowledged that they will have to use actual parts from the Apollo program to build up the hardware that will be needed.

Will Aryan man be able to reach for the stars? The answer to this question depends very much on whether his civilization will survive the next 100 years. Demographic changes at work in America, and all White Western nations, left unchecked, will see the extinguishing of those nations as White powerhouses within the next century. If that happens, there will be no more space programs, no more space exploration. Aryan man now faces his greatest challenge, one that will be even more important to bridge than crossing the chasm of the Ginnungagap.

His greatest challenge is not the mystery of the Black Holes and interplanetary travel – but rather his immediate racial survival here on earth. If he fails in this mission, space exploration will die with him. If he succeeds, then the very stars themselves will be in his grasp.

Light from some of these galaxies has been traveling for over 12 billion years. This image is the deepest look into the visible universe ever, made by a million-second-long exposure which reveals the first galaxies to emerge after the Big Bang.

The African Manned Space Program (1964): A little known footnote to the history of Space Exploration is that of the African space program, specifically that under Dr. Edward Mukaka Nkoloso, Director-General, Zambian National Academy of Space Research (ZNASR), who, by 1964, had already, he said, conducted an "advanced" program with ten Zambian astronauts and a seventeen-year-old African girl; all being trained in readiness for Zambia's moon shot.

Incredibly, some media took the claims of an African space program seriously enough in 1964 to give passing publicity to claims by the Zambian National Academy of Space Research (ZNASR), which said it was developing a catapult to launch its 'rocket' – which turned out to be a set of empty oil drums welded together.

We're going to Mars!

WITH A SPACEGIRL, TWO CATS AND A MISSIONARY

"Zambians are inferior to no men in science technology. My space plans will surely be carried out."- a triumphant Dr. Nkoloso told the media in 1964. "I'll have my first Zambian astronaut on the Moon by 1965.... We are using my own firing system, derived from the catapult."

When the media asked to see his rocket, Dr. Nkoloso showed them a number of empty oil drums, which he was welding together to form the body of the rocket. But there were other problems, as he revealed: "To really get going we need about seven hundred million pounds. It sounds a lot of money, but imagine the prestige value it would earn for Zambia. But I've had trouble with my space-men and space-women. They won't concentrate on space flight; there's too much love making when they should be studying the moon. Matha Mwamba, the seventeen-year-old girl who had been chosen to be the first colored woman on Mars, has also to feed her ten cats, which will be her companions on the long space flight... I'm getting them acclimatized to space-travel by placing them in my space capsule every day. It's a 40-gallon oil drum in which they sit, and I then roll them down a hill. This gives them the feeling of rushing through space. I also make them swing from the end of a long rope. When they reach the highest point, I cut the rope — this produces a feeling of free fall."

Astonishingly enough, Dr. Nkoloso also requested money from NASA, to continue with his experiments at his space training camp. NASA did not send him any dollars but they did send him a load of technical books on rocketry. Sadly the Zambian initiative floundered after this, due to lack of funds.

Israel: International Criminal Headquarters

> "It doesn't even enter their (the Jews) heads to build up a Jewish state in Palestine for the purpose of living there; all they want is a central headquarters for their international world swindle, endowed with its own sovereign rights and removed from the intervention of other states: a haven for convicted scoundrels and a university for budding crooks."
>
> - (Adolf Hitler, Mein Kampf, Volume I, Chapter 11, pp. 324-325)

French television caused a stir in 2005 when one of its channels broadcast a program about the Zionist state called "Israel - a criminal's paradise?"

The timing was not coincidental. Just the week before, a trial in a criminal case known as the Sentier Affair had started, in which 124 traders from the Sentier textile district in Paris - most of them Jews of Tunisian descent – were charged with defrauding 33 banks and insurance companies of $77 million in the late 1990s, using a "pyramid" scheme.[1]

During the trial, the French prosecutor said that Israel had assisted some of the suspects in fleeing to that country. Israel was included in a June 2000 international blacklist of 15 countries that are not cooperating in the war against money-laundering. By "intentionally" failing to live up to its commitment to hunt down the fugitives wanted in France, "Israel removed itself from the family of nations," the French prosecutor in the Sentier case said.

Israel: America's Poisonous "Ally"[2]

Jewish control over the instruments of government in Washington DC and the American media is well documented. This results in unswerving loyalty to Israel by the American puppet government — despite the fact Israel continuously betrays this friendship, support and trust.

One of the most famous incidents took place during the Arab-Israeli War of 1967, when an American Navy ship, the USS Liberty, was illegally and repeatedly attacked by the Israeli Air Force. The American ship was clearly identified by the Israelis as an American ship, but had ventured too close to Israel and was considered a spy ship. The American Navy lost 34 men dead and had 171 wounded.

Despite Israeli claims that the attack on the Liberty was an "accident," the truth was revealed in 1991 when the former American Ambassador in Beirut, Dwight Porter, chose to make public the intercepts of radio communications between Israeli pilots circling the USS Liberty and Israeli Defense Force headquarters. The pilot of the Israeli Mirage fighter-bomber had radioed "It's an American ship". The reply from the Israeli headquarters told him to disregard the identification and attack the ship.

continued on page 14

1967: The USS Liberty receives aid from other US Navy ships after being repeatedly attacked by Israeli aircraft and attack craft, despite the Israelis being fully aware that it was an American ship. Inset: An Israeli attack boat, photographed from the bridge of the Liberty.

Israel: International Criminal Headquarters

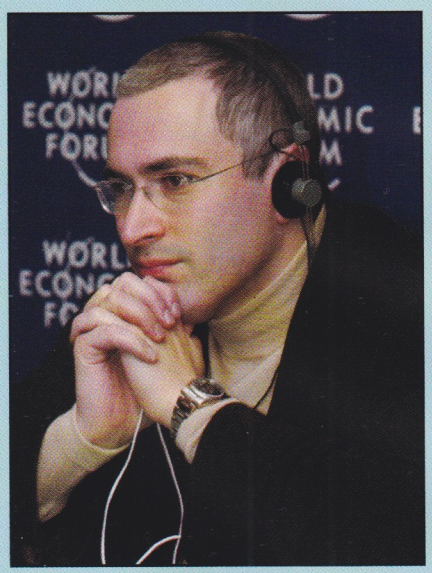
continued from page 13

Israel: Spying on America[3]

Countless Jew spies, working for Israel, have been arrested in America, displaying for all but the blind the duplicity of the Zionist state. The most famous Jew spy caught of late is Jonathan Pollard, who is serving a lengthy sentence in jail, but there have been dozens more who have escaped punishment by simply being sent back to Israel.

In August 2005, grand jury indictments handed down against a senior Pentagon official and two Jewish Washington-based lobbyists revealed once again the extent of Israeli spy network operating against the United States. Lawrence Franklin, who held a top secret security clearance and worked under the prominent neocon Jew, Douglas Feith, within the office of Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld; Steven J. Rosen, the Jew former director of foreign policy issues at the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC); and the Jew Keith Weisman, a senior Middle East analyst in the same Washington-based pro-Israel lobby group, were the three named in the indictment.

According to the grand jury, in April 1999 Rosen and Weisman began their spying operations by "cultivating relationships and using their contacts within the U.S. government and elsewhere to gather sensitive U.S. government information, including classified information relating to the national defense" which they then passed to people connected to Israel's intelligence and diplomatic services. In an article that appeared in the Jerusalem Post, national Director of the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) Abraham Foxman insinuated that the FBI's investigations are motivated by "anti-Jewish bias."



One who didn't get away: Unlike his co-religionist colleagues, the Russian Jew Mikhail Khodorkovsky was unable to escape to Israel in time, and was sentenced to nine years in jail in May 2005 after being found guilty of massive fraud.

Israel: Safe Haven for Russian Jew Criminals[4]

In 2001, the Israeli Knesset [Parliament of Israel] Speaker Avraham Burg had sent a strongly worded letter to parliamentarians abroad, urging them to work to free jailed Russian Jewish media baron Vladimir Gusinsky. His call was backed up by the World Jewish Congress, which specifically asked Interpol not to arrest Gusinsky. The Jew's crime? Russia had issued an international arrest warrant for Gusinsky, who headed the Russian chapter of the World Jewish Congress. He fled the country after he was jailed for three days in June 2000, on fraud charges.

The Moscow Prosecution Department accused Gusinsky, the chairman of the Russian newspaper group Media-Most, of embezzling funds with $300 million from the energy consortium Gazprom. Gusinsky is amongst dozens of Russian Jews prosecuted, or wanted, by Russian police for raping that country following the collapse of Communism.

One Jew who did not get away was Mikhail Khodorkovsky, who was arrested before he could flee to Russia like his fellow religionists, and who was sentenced to a lengthy prison term for his criminality. His three oil executive colleagues, now living in Israel, are Leonid Nevzlin, Mikhail Brudno and Vladimir Dubov. All three have outstanding warrants for their arrest along with Khodorkovsky, and dare not set foot in Russia again. All three also appeared on the Forbes list of the world's billionaires in 2004.

Also with homes in Israel is the much sought after Vladimir Gusinsky, and Boris Berezovsky, a one-time Kremlin insider who was charged with fraud. All immigrated under Israel's "Law of Return," which grants automatic citizenship to any Jew.

Asaf Shariv, a spokesman for Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon, turned down the extradition requests flat. "They are Israeli citizens and that's it," said Shariv.

When Sharon was asked about these Russian Jew criminals that Israel was sheltering, he said "I do not intend to turn anyone over. Since the days of my youth, I have been opposed to turning over Jews. I am saying this in the clearest manner possible," he told the Yediot Ahronot daily."

continued on next page

continued from previous page

Israel: Banks So Crooked that They Are Banned from International Transactions[5]

The French bank, Credit Lyonnais, has found Israeli banks to be so crooked that they have stopped taking Israeli checks altogether. In January 2002, the French bank stopped accepting checks from correspondent banks in Israel and other companies on the blacklist of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering (FATF). This followed the announcement by another French bank, Societe Generale, that it was suspending the processing of checks from correspondent Israeli banks.

Israel is on the blacklist of 19 countries and territories considered particularly problematic when it comes to the supervision of money-laundering activities. Several Israeli banks are involved, including Leumi, Israel Discount Bank and the First International Bank of Israel."

Israel's White sex slave racket is so large that it has been the focus of mainstream media coverage, such as Fox's special (above). Below, a Russian girl, forced into prostitution in Israel after being tricked into travelling to that country.

Israel Is On Official List of World's Worst Copyright Infringers[6]

Israel is a haven for rip-off and scam artists. It is one of the world's largest producers of pirate goods, and in April 2005, was placed on the official "black list" of copyright infringers by the US Department of Trade and Industry, along with 13 other, mostly Asian, countries. The US Department of Trade is allowed to apply to the World Trade Organization for permission to place offending countries under economic sanctions, but due to the power of Jewish lobby in Washington, Israel has never been punished in this way.

Israel: Sex Slave and Prostitution Center[7]

Israel's sex industry is worth half a billion dollars, and is largely staffed by sex slaves, recruited by criminal Jew gangs in Eastern Europe. In July 2001, the U.S. State Department placed Israel on a 'third tier' list of countries, or worst offenders, of Traffickers in Persons. Women and children alike are trafficked by this Jew mafia. The girls are recruited through 'an ad or an unexpected meeting on the street, with a proposition to work abroad as a maid, secretary, showgirl, nanny or waitress.

Once in Israel, the girls find themselves trapped and forced to work in Israel's brothels, often being subjected to outright imprisonment and severe punishment if they try to escape. According to a report by CBS news in March 2005, between 3,000 and 5,000 women have been smuggled into Israel over the past four years in a burgeoning, illegal sex industry. Women are smuggled across the Egyptian border into Israel and "along the way, raped, beaten and then sold in public auctions," said CBS.

According to Amnesty International's report on the sex slave trade in Israel, issued in 2005, "The Israeli government has failed to take adequate measures to prevent, investigate, prosecute and punish human rights abuses committed against trafficked women." The report said hundreds of women a year are kidnapped or lured into Israel's sex industry, where they are bought and sold, auctioned, held in debt bondage, imprisoned by their "owners," deprived of their travel documents, raped and tortured.

Israel: Haven for Common Thieves[8]

In 1999, Sir George Martin, the famous "fifth" member of the 1960s pop band, the Beatles, had seven original scores stolen during his first concert at the Jerusalem International Convention Center's Israel Music Festival. The original orchestrations were the only copies Martin brought with him, and their absence put his second performance of the festival in jeopardy.

Two of the scores were discovered when a woman approached Martin after the concert and asked him to sign the sheets of music she had taken during intermission. One witness noted the woman's shock as Martin displayed his unhappiness.

Not until Sir George's producer ran an advertisement on Israel Radio pleading that Martin would be unable to continue his tour unless the sheets were returned, did three people come forward and give back four more scores.

continued on page 20

WHAT IS THE NATIONAL ALLIANCE?

The National Alliance is a group of White men and women who are united in the ideals of preserving a future for the White Race in America and around the world.

A Natural Order

We see ourselves as part of nature, subject to Nature's law. Within the scope of these laws, we are able to determine our own destiny. If we err in our efforts, there is no one to protect us from the consequences of our folly or our weakness. We are responsible for everything over which we have the power of choice: in particular, for the state of our environment and for the destiny of our race.

The Law of Inequality

We recognize the inequalities which arise as natural consequences of the evolutionary process and which are essential to progress in every sphere of life. Different races evolved under different circumstances, and Nature has endowed each race with different characteristics. We believe that our race is highly developed at planning, self-discipline, has higher mental faculties – including the abilities to conceptualize, to solve problems and to plan for the future, as opposed to other races. This does not imply that we look down or despise other races. It merely means that we acknowledge and bow to Nature's decision in allocating different abilities to different races. As a result, we believe that races vary greatly in their capabilities to build and to sustain societies. We also believe that individuals within a race differ as well: some are better able to understand the world around them than others; some are more creative; some have better self-discipline or a stronger will; some have a more highly developed sense of responsibility. In a well-ordered society, these differences will be reflected in varying degrees of influence being exercised by the various members of the society, according to their varying individual qualities.

A Hierarchy of Responsibilities

We are obligated by Nature to participate as effectively as we can in its eternal quest for higher levels of development, higher forms of life. We have a special obligation to our own race: to ensure its survival, to safeguard its unique characteristics and to improve its quality. We have an obligation to those members of our race who are most conscious of their own obligations and who are most active in meeting these obligations. There is a bond of comradeship between each of us who are working for the same cause. We have a responsibility to ourselves to be the best and strongest individuals that we can be. Our acceptance of this hierarchy of responsibilities is in contrast to individualists, who recognize no responsibility except to themselves; and to humanists who eschew their racial responsibility.

A White Living Space

We must have our own living and breeding area. The sickness of "multiculturalism" must be swept away, we must again have a racially clean area of the earth for further development of our people. We must have White schools, White residential neighborhoods and recreational areas, White workplaces, White farms and countryside. The long-term demographic trend toward a darker world, which the disastrous policies of the last century have caused, must not only be halted; it must be reversed.

A New Educational System

We want an educational system that will properly serve to pass our people's cultural, intellectual, and spiritual heritage from generation to generation; to teach skills and techniques; and to guide the character development of individuals from childhood to adulthood. It must pass on a consciousness of our European heritage to instill a patriotic race consciousness in all future generations, to ensure that the value and worth of race is held paramount.

An Economic Policy Based on Racial Principles

We need an economic system which, in contrast to Marxism, allows individuals to succeed in proportion to their capability and energy, but which, in contrast to lasseiz-faire capitalism, does not allow them to engage in socially or racially harmful activity, such as stifling competition or importing non-White labor. We need to maintain social flexibility, so that capable and energetic individuals always have the possibility of rising. We need to ensure that capital does not have the possibility of changing society's rules to suit itself. The way to achieve and maintain an economic system which meets these criteria is to design and govern the system subject to the supreme principle: the ultimate aim of all economic policy is racial progress.

A White Society

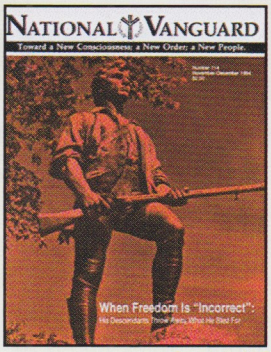
We must have new societies throughout the White world, which are based on White values and are compatible with our White nature. There will be room for Germanic societies, Celtic societies, Slavic societies, and so on, each with its own roots, traditions, and language. What we must have, however, is a thorough rooting out of Semitic and other non-Aryan values and customs. We must once again provide the sort of social and spiritual environment in which our own nature can express itself in organizational forms (i.e., in government, social structure, and social institutions), in music, in art and architecture, in literature, in philosophy and scholarship, and in the life-styles of our people.

A Responsible Government

We must have a government wholly committed to the service of our race and subject to no non-Aryan influence. The central task of a new government will be to reverse the racially devolutionary course of the last few millennia and keep it reversed: a long-term eugenics program involving at least the entire populations of Europe and America. We want an honest government whose every branch is staffed by people carefully selected and trained for their responsibilities, not by people who are merely liars with charisma.

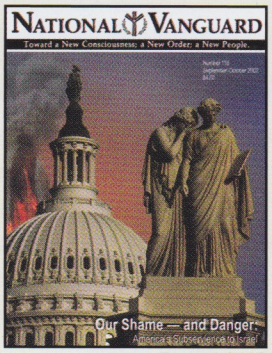
Are you interested in finding out more? Then write us at Post Office Box 90, Hillsboro, WV, 24946, USA or visit us on-line at www.natall.com

Item # 180

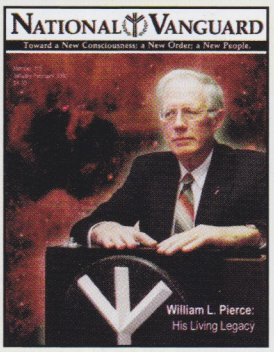


Item # 605

Item # 702

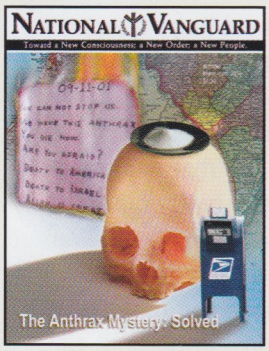


Item # 3118



Item # 3119

NATIONAL VANGUARD MAGAZINE



Item # 3122

The world's premier, pro-White, full-color, English-language magazine, is now bigger and better than ever before. Each issue contains articles and information vital to all racially conscious White people - from in-depth analyses to up to-date news from around the globe.

Drawing upon the skills and talents of the best pro-White writers available today, National Vanguard magazine is now published every two months, an indication of its increasing popularity and professionalism.

If you are not a subscriber, then these are some of the in-depth articles you have missed over the last four issues alone: White South Africa: What Went Wrong; The Meaning of Personal Sacrifice: The Price Paid by America's Founding Fathers; The Glory of Rome: One of the Greatest Eras of our Race; Lessons from the Past: How Race Defeated Egypt; and much, much more.

In today's changing world, you need to stay informed.

Subscribe to National Vanguard magazine.

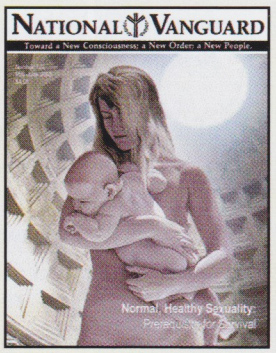
Subscription in the US: $22 for one year, $40 for two years;
Canada: $30 for one year, $56 for two years;
Foreign: $40 for one year, $76 for two years.

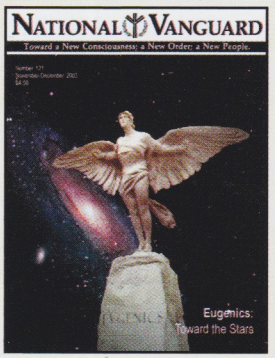
Pictured on this page are all the available back issues. They are $6 each postpaid, except for #180, # 605 and #702 which are $7.50 each.

Please find a new subscription form on page 2 of this magazine.

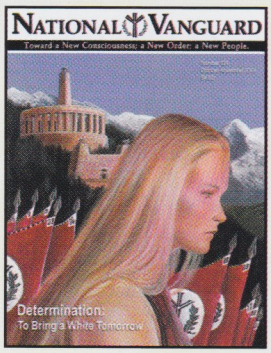


Item # 3120

Item # 3123

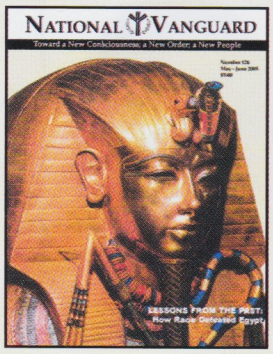


Item # 3121

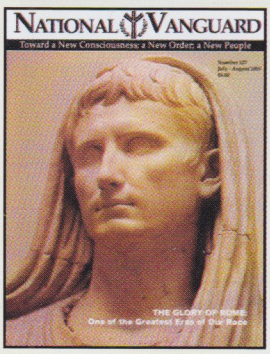


Item # 3124

Item # 3125

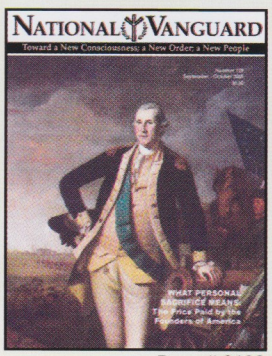


Item # 3126



NATIONAL VANGUARD
Toward a New Consciousness; a New Order; a New People
THE GLORY OF ROME:
One of the Greatest Eras of Our Race

Item # 3127



NATIONAL VANGUARD
Toward a New Consciousness; a New Order; a New People
WHAT PERSONAL
SACRIFICE MEANS:
The Price Paid by the Founders of America

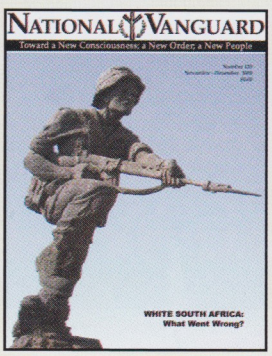
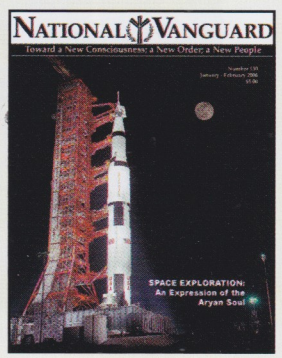
Item # 3128



Item # 3129



NATIONAL VANGUARD
Toward a New Consciousness; a New Order; a New People
SPACE EXPLORATION:
An Expression of the
Aryan Soul

Item # 3130

Columnist BOB WHITAKER: Pax Something and Black Pilots

The Pax Americana

When I pointed out how right my predictions had been in the past, some readers ask that I write some now. Here's one: Believe it or not, we are living in what will be called the Pax Americana in the exact same sense that the period from 1814-1914 is now officially dubbed the Pax Britannica.

Pax means "peace," and few of us living today would consider this to be peace. To those of us living in a Pax of this sort, the term seems strange. In fact what we now look upon as the Pax Romanicum, from which the later Paxes derive their name, would seem an odd term for those living at the time. The idea that the whole Mediterranean world was at PEACE during the two centuries after Augustus won the civil war and became Emperor, is what later historians said.

There were constant wars, including the conquest of Britain, which struck the people there as less than perfect peace. But all three so-called Paxes are very similar. In each case, the following period is called a Pax by HISTORIANS. I doubt if anyone saw them that way at the time. Pax is a comparative term. In each case, you have to look at what happened just BEFORE the so-called Pax began.

The Pax Romanicum followed a decades-long civil war. Legions fought legions, leaders died, chaos ruled. For over two centuries nothing vaguely approaching it occurred again. But war was constant on a small scale during the period historians refer to as the Pax Romanicum.

Again, to understand the term Pax Britannica you have to look at what happened just BEFORE it. The Pax Britannica came at the end of a Europe-wide war and Napoleonic occupation that lasted over twenty years, fought from Spain to Moscow. From 1814 when Napoleon was finally beaten at Waterloo to 1914, nothing approaching that endless conflict occurred again.

As we all know, one of the really ironic things that the allies convinced themselves of in World War I was that, if they won, the Pax would return. They seriously called it The War to End All Wars. In the 1920s, all the major powers signed the Kellogg-Briand pact stating that war was no longer an option for any of them.

In fact during the first few months of World War II there was a period called the Sitzkrieg after Germany invaded Poland when Germans and French troops just sat there. Only Churchill kept it going until Germany finally took France out in 1940. He could have made peace with Germany and let Hitler go after Stalin until Germany finally lost patience.

After that came almost half a century of World War II and the Cold War which was fought in every corner of the globe. The resources spent in the Cold War dwarfed those spent in any other war in history. The lives taken by Communists during that period dwarf those of all the wars before, but they were just a bunch of Russians and Chinese and stuff, so nobody cares about that. We lost a couple of hundred thousand troops over that period and that matters to historians. But what really mattered were Jews who died in World War II.

But, despite the fact that it didn't kill anybody important, the Cold War made the whole world unstable and we were hovering on the brink of nuclear war for over a generation. A nuclear war could have wiped out New York and San Francisco, where REAL PEOPLE lived, so that was a big deal. What we have right now is what HISTORIANS will look upon as "outbreaks." They do not threaten important places, where real people live.

If this period lasts long enough, it will be called a Pax. But the period from 1918 to 1939 was too short to be called a Pax Anybody. From a historical point of view, this Pax has been going since the first country left the Soviet Empire without being crushed. It is already

continued on next page

SITUATION TERMINAL . . . BUT NOT SERIOUS By Bob Whitaker

SITUATION TERMINAL . . . BUT NOT SERIOUS

By Bob Whitaker

continued from previous page

about the length of the 1918 to 1939 period of peace. I think the rule of thumb so far is that a real Pax Somebody has to last a century. But this one might make it for fifty years, and so it will up to the historical umpires to make the call. The end of this period of peace will come when 'Superterrorism' ends the whole era of national states.

Painful Nostalgia

The ADL and Ariel Sharom have demanded that the top university in the Ukraine be shut down and all its tens of thousands of degrees rescinded because it allows anti-Israel discussion and it awarded a PhD to David Duke. Instead of doing the required groveling, the president of the university struck back and said ISRAEL should be shut down. Lord, if we had anybody with guts like that!

Here is what I replied and the story I replied to: "That article makes me PAINFULLY nostalgic." "Before the group that calls itself The Greatest Generation came along, that Ukrainian's response would have been considered an AMERICAN response. Back then."

"It was just what you would have expected from a real American in the days before the obedience-trained Greatest Generation took over. If some foreign government had told Americans and Europeans to close a university, we would expect Europeans to be a bit more diplomatic, but an American would say, 'Shut me down, hell, let's shut HIM down.'"

My father was a critic of World War II. A government bureaucrat threatened to shut his business down if he kept criticizing. My father told him, 'You can shut me down, but you sure as hell can't shut me UP.' There are very few of us real Americans left over here, but I am overjoyed to see that that attitude is alive and well in Eastern Europe. Maybe Eastern Europe will help is get our own testosterone back.

Pearl Harbor

On December 7, 1941 Japan attacked Pearl Harbor. On December 8, 1941 the United States Congress declared war on Japan. But something else happened in those twenty-four hours between December 7 and December 8. President Roosevelt was desperately trying to realize his dream of getting the United States into the war against Germany. But, even at the height of war hysteria, he could not get the votes.

So from December 7 to December 11 the United States was at war only with Japan. I say December 7 because the declaration said specifically that a state of war had existed from the moment the Japanese attacked.

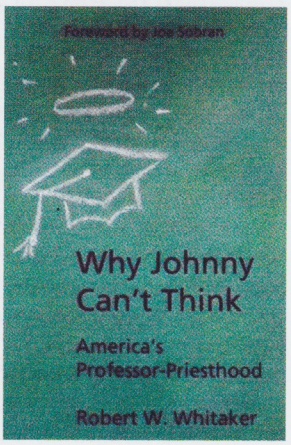
On December 11, 1941, Hitler gave Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin the greatest gift they had ever received. He did what Roosevelt had tried so hard to do on December 7. He declared war on the United States, a White country, "on the side of heroic Japan." If Hitler had not given this gift to Roosevelt, the very victory he had fought for and lost, the United States' full military effort would have been in Asia. It is impossible to explain why Hitler took Roosevelt's side this way and backed Roosevelt, but may have been the greatest strategic blunder in history. Instead of a united Communist Empire, the world would have had a mutually hostile Germany and Russia.

How Things Work

When I first got to Africa, there was a surplus of pilots in the world. So many had been trained in recent wars that many had to go to obscure African countries to get jobs. At the same time a lot of people began to ask why, since there had been Black rulers in those countries for years, there were no Black PILOTS there? I had many a drink with the White pilots down there, and they were not the only ones who explained to me why they didn't have Black pilots down there. They tried to introduce Black pilots slowly. They would put an African co-pilot in the cockpit with a White pilot. And the passengers would walk off the plane. It was never the WHITE passengers who got off the plane. They were familiar with the concept of pilot and co-pilot, and they knew that African planes involved a certain risk anyway. No, it was the BLACKS who got off the plane. They were not about to go into the sky with a Black man flying the plane.

It has been a long time since I was out in the bush.

Columnist Bob Whitaker is a former White House staffer, talk show host, and author. His latest book, Why Johnny Can't Think: America's Professor-Priesthood, is available from National Vanguard Books for $11.95 postpaid as item # 1111



Israel: International Criminal Headquarters

continued from page 15

Israel: Headquarters for World's Cyber Crime[9]

According to managed security services firm Riptech, Inc., once the figures are adjusted for the number of Internet users in each country, the intensity of attacks from Israel is nearly double the attack intensity rate of any other individual country.

A 2003 survey by Symantec found that Israel was the leading country used as a base for Internet attacks. Symantec ranked the threats according to the size of a country's Internet population base. Israel was cited as the biggest source of Web-based attacks with an Internet user base of more than 1 million. The problem is so severe that a number of Internet storage sites have begun banning Israeli surfers from accessing their services, saying that "unsuitable" behavior has forced them to block IP addresses from Israel. The Web sites say Israeli surfers have used the site to upload and share pornographic material in large numbers, "forcing" them to place a blanket ban on Israeli Web users.

100WebSpace, a storage site, has blocked all IP addresses originating from Israel, following what it says were "repeated attempts to exploit the service from Israel." Another free storage provider, Putfile.com, has also barred Israeli IPs. A Putfile.com spokesman said that the blanket regional ban on Israeli users was the correct course of action. "This is not a small amount of users, but a large number, that have ruined the enjoyment for everyone else," he said. Putfile.com's terms of use forbid the use of pornographic images, but putfile.com says that out of 22,157 file uploads from Israel, 15,741 contained sexually explicit material.

Putfile.com said 87 percent of Israeli users broke the site's term of use. Enom.com, another site providing free Web storage, has also begun blocking potential users from Israel. The ban was taken following "the especially high level of attempted fraudulent use from Israel" according to the message now received by would-be Israeli users.

The Polish Jew, Solomon Morel, who fled to Israel to escape prosecution for genocide. Poland's Institute of National Remembrance (IPN), which investigates war crimes, holds Morel, as commandant of the Swietochlowice concentration camp, responsible for the deaths of 1,538 prisoners — mostly civilians, a mixture of Polish and German men, women, and children after World War II.

Israel: One of the "Most Corrupt Western Countries" — World Bank[10]

In August 2005, the World Bank officially listed Israel as one of the most corrupt and least efficient governments in the Western world. The World Bank government efficiency index examines the quality of public services. The Israeli index reached 80.8 percent, trailing developed countries like Holland, the United Kingdom, Germany, the United States, France and Spain. The average ranking in the developed world was 89.7 percent.

Israel: Jew War Criminals Given Safe Haven[11]

In 1994, the Jew Solomon Morel, fled to Israel from his native Poland to escape prosecution for genocide. Poland's Institute of National Remembrance (IPN), which investigates war crimes, holds Morel, as commandant of the Swietochlowice concentration camp, responsible for the deaths of 1,538 prisoners — mostly civilians, a mixture of men and women, children and old people, Polish and German, who were abused, beaten, starved, raped and brutalized immediately after the end of the Second World War.

In 1993, CBS' 60 Minutes investigated the case (Morel declined to be interviewed) and substantiated many atrocities. The Soviet dictator, Josef Stalin, sought out Jews to run prison camps for Germans because he didn't trust Poles and felt Jews had no reason to be loyal to Poland and would want revenge on Germans.

Israel has consistently refused to extradite Morel. "There is no basis to accuse Morel of the crime of genocide ... he and his family are survivors of genocide ... committed by the Nazis and their Polish collaborators," said a communiqué issued by Israel's justice ministry, ignoring the fact that the first accusations made against Morel came from the late John Sack, a Jew and a respected journalist whose book, An Eye for an Eye, told Morel's story.

Israel: Leader in The Human Organ Trafficking Trade[12]

In 2004, several Jew doctors, using the city of Durban in South Africa as a base, were caught in one of

continued on next page

continued from previous page

the largest human organ trafficking criminal activities yet uncovered. South African Jew doctor, Durban kidney specialist Jeff Kallmeyer, a Jewish-owned private South African hospital (Netcare) group's transplant unit employee Melanie Azor and Hebrew/English interpreter Samuel Ziegler all were charged with trading in human kidneys in a Durban court in August 2005.

The syndicate recruited poor Brazilians who were flown to South Africa and paid a few hundred dollars for their healthy kidneys. The recipients were Israelis who paid up to $120,000 for "transplant holidays." False documents were produced, indicating that the donors and recipients were blood relatives and that no money changed hands.

Israel: Jewish Law says that only Non-Jews are Terrorists[13]

Four Arab Israelis who were shot dead by a Israeli soldier opposed to the closure of the Gaza Strip settlements in August 2005 were "not victims of terror" because their killer was Jewish, Israel's defense ministry ruled, and so their families are not entitled to the usual compensation for life. The ministry concluded that Israeli law only recognizes terrorism as committed by "organizations hostile to Israel." Private Eden Nathan Zaada, 19, shot dead four Arabs on a bus in the Arab Israeli town of Shfaram on August 4, 2005 and was then lynched by a mob.

Israel: Center of the International Ecstasy Drug Trade[14]

According to an article in the Israeli Haaretz newspaper, Israeli criminals control no less than 75 percent of the Ecstasy market in the U.S. The Israeli Jew Oded Tuito, who died in June 2004 in New York, a few days after suffering a heart attack in his cell in the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn, New York, was fingered by the FBI as one of the "major drug dealers in the United States." He was responsible for smuggling millions of Ecstasy (MDMA) tablets into that country in the late 1990s.

According to a report issued in 2003 by the U.S. State Department, Israel is at the center of international trafficking in Ecstasy and Israeli crime organizations, some of them linked to similar organizations from Russia, achieved a dominant status in the Ecstasy market in Europe, and went on to control the drug's distribution in the States. A report of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) explains that, "Israeli drug traffickers, perhaps thanks to their long-standing ties in Antwerp, continue to be the major elements in the transfer of large shipments of Ecstasy from Belgium [to the United States]."

Israel: Shipping US Technology to Red China[15]

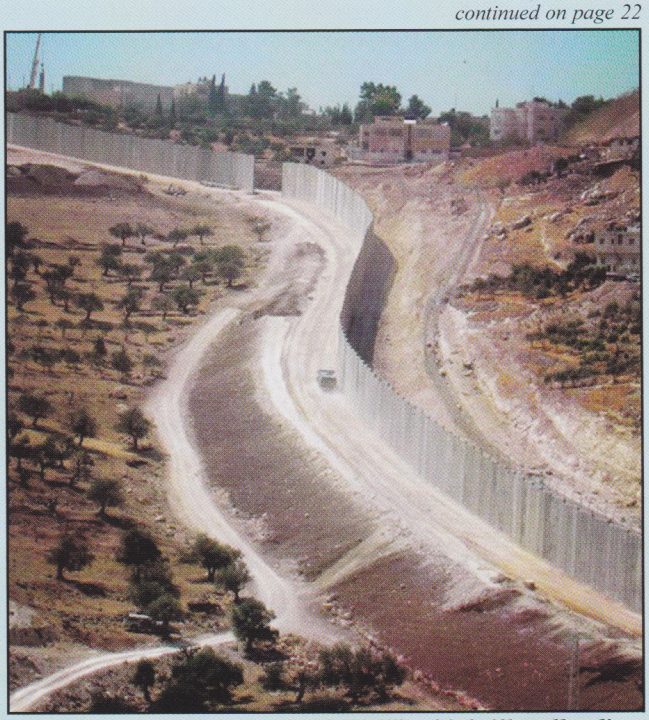
Israel is one of Red China's most important suppliers of advanced American weapons technology, a situation that led to an official reprimand from the US State Department in July 2005. The outcry came when news broke of Israel's sale to China of replacement parts for Harpy attack drones.

The U.S. asked for the Israeli parliament to tighten oversight of military exports, and is demanded that it sign a memorandum of understanding. Finally, the U.S. wanted a written apology from Israel. Of course, due to the power of the Jewish lobby in Washington DC, nothing was ever actually done.

Israel: Flouts International Law[16]

One of the reasons given for the invasion of Iraq in 2003 was that Saddam Hussein had flouted United

continued on page 22



Israel's so-called "Apartheid Wall" which illegally slices through Palestinian land, separating villages from their food planting and livestock grazing land, and which effectively annexes Palestinian land. Israel has ignored international outrage over the wall, which has included an International Court of Justice ruling against it.

Israel: International Criminal Headquarters

continued from page 21

Nations resolutions and was therefore in breach of international law. In fact, Hussein and the Iraqi regime had been the subject of 69 UN Security Council resolutions between 1967 and 2000. By comparison, Israel has been the subject of 138 resolutions in that same period, all of which the Jewish state has ignored.

Israel in fact holds the record for the single country most in breach of international laws, relating to weapons, treatment of Palestinians, aggressive behavior towards its neighbors, assassinations and terrorism. In 2005, two Israeli Mossad agents were arrested in New Zealand, trying to obtain fake passports in that country. The uproar saw the New Zealand government withdraw its ambassador to Israel.

In 2004, the International Court of Justice (ICJ), the principal judicial organ of the United Nations, has also ruled that Israel's construction of a wall in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, is in breach of international law.[17] Once again, Israel simply ignored the ruling, and because of the power of the Jewish lobby in Western governments, no action has been taken for this blatant flouting of international opinion.

All they want is a central headquarters for their international world swindle."

It seems as if these words of Adolf Hitler, written in 1923, have turned out to be prophetically accurate: Israel has become a haven for scoundrels, swindlers, thieves and criminals, and a safe refuge for Jews fleeing the righteous wrath of the Gentile hosts upon who they have parasite-like attached themselves.

Sources:
(1) French Media Portray Israel as 'Criminal's Eden', Haaretz, February 26, 2001; (2) The Attack on the USS Liberty, USSLiberty.org; (3) Spy Ring Busted, Aipac Scandal Breaks Loose, American Free Press, August 15, 2005; (4) Wanted Russian Fugitives Find Homes in Israel, Threaten to Cloud Putin's Historic Visit, The Associated Press, Apr. 27, 2005, SUR, General News, Dec. 15th - 21st 2000; (5) Credit Lyonnais Stops Taking Israeli Checks, Haaretz, January 20, 2002; (6) Israel placed on list of copyright infringers, Ynet News, 04.29.05; (7) Half-Billion-Dollar Industry Largely Staffed By Sex Slaves, by Dr. Martin Brass, Soldier of Fortune, October 2002, p. 32; Selling Sex in Israel, Jewsweek, July 18, 2001; Thousands of Women Sold as Sex Slaves, Agence France Presse, Friday 25 March 2005; (8) Sir George Martin Gets Back 6 of 7 Stolen Scores, Jerusalem Post, June 6, 1999; (9) Israeli IP? You're banned, Ynet News, 08.02.05; (10) Israel ranks among most corrupt in West, Haaretz, August 04, 2005; (11) WWII case awkward for Israel, TorontoSun.com, August 10, 2005; (12) Kidney trading doctors in court, Independent Online, South Africa, 6/08/2005; (13) Jewish gunman was no terrorist, Israel rules, The Guardian, September 1, 2005; (14) The agony of the Ecstasy, Haaretz, 28/10/2005; (15) U.S.-Israel crisis deepens over defense exports to China, Haaretz, 27/07/2005; (16) The Kiwi that roared, Jerusalem Post, 09/05/05; (17) Report, ICJ, 9 July 2004.

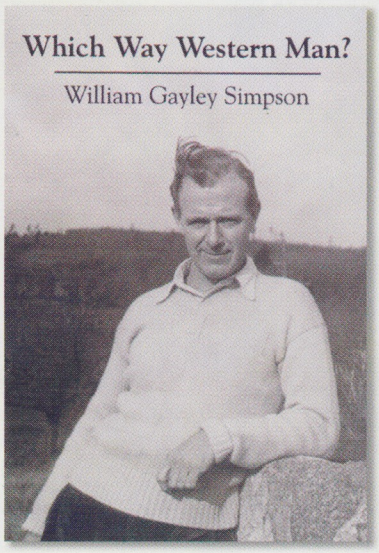
SURVIVAL MANUAL FOR THE WHITE RACE



William Gayley Simpson spent a lifetime of keen observation, careful analysis, and deep reflection developing the principal thesis of his book: that the single, undying purpose of all human activity should be the ennobling of man.

In support of this thesis, he looks at the foundations of Western society, at the structure of our government, at the effect of technology and industrialization on man, at the roles of the sexes, at economics, and at race. The book goes to the roots of the problems facing the White race today, and it shows the ways in which White society must be changed if the race is to survive. Which Way Western Man? is an encyclopedic work whose conclusions can be ignored by no one with a sense of responsibility to the future.

For your copy of Which Way Western Man? send $42.95 postpaid in the U.S., $44.95 elsewhere. Order item 407. New edition with author's revisions, 1070 pp. softcover.

National Vanguard Books
Box 330, Hillsboro , WV 24946, USA
order online at www.natvan.com/catalog

The North Wind has Begun to Blow

By Shaun Walker, Chairman, National Alliance

For the first time since the end of the Second World War, things are looking up for the White race. After decades of retreat before the anti-White forces, we see all over the world, an awakening on all levels: political, social, cultural coupled with many pro-White political activists.

* In Western Europe alone, some 20 million Whites have voted for pro-White populist parties;
* In America, illegal immigration is now firmly to the fore with the public and media and is determining a great many political agendas;
* While the National Alliance itself continues to make great strides forward, despite a few hiccups, it has firmly established its leadership in the racial-nationalist scene both at home and internationally.

Europe: In Excess of 20 million Racially Conscious Votes

Thirty-five years of hard work by pro-White individuals and groups in Western Europe is finally starting to bear fruit — and many will be surprised to read that over 20 million Europeans have already voted for expressly pro-White populist parties. This would have been unimaginable even ten years ago, and is an indication of the direction in which politics is moving on the Motherland continent.

- France: 8.5 Million Racially Conscious Votes

The non-White riots in France towards the end of 2005, brought home to many French people the racial reality as they had never experienced it before: through widespread riots, flames and destruction. At the end of the non-White rampage, it has emerged that at least 24% of the French citizens now agree with the ideas of the pro-White National Front (FN) Jean-Marie Le Pen, revealed by a poll in the Le Monde newspaper.

This survey revealed that 1 out of 4 Frenchmen agree with Le Pen's ideas on upholding traditional values, on security, and on immigration among other issues. Even more importantly, the poll found that only 39 percent of the French now believe that the views of Jean-Marie Le Pen are "unacceptable."

"That means that a clear majority, 61 percent, now see Le Pen as a legitimate candidate, and that his policies of compulsory mass expulsion of immigrants, including children born in France and thus French citizens, are an acceptable part of political discourse" reported the United Press International in its subdued commentary regarding the recent poll.

Imagine what this means for France: in 2002, the charismatic National Front leader polled 16.86% in the first round of the presidential elections, coming second and forcing his way into the run-off, where he polled 18% of the total vote - in real terms, some 5.8 million votes. Based on this, 25% of the vote implies as many as 8.5 million racially conscious votes in France's future elections.

- Austria: 1.24 million Racially Conscious Votes

The pro-White Austrian Freedom Party (FPO), having polled 27% of the vote in the 1999 parliamentary election (translating to 1.24 million votes) suffered a setback when its leader, Jorg Haider, left the party. The party polled a mere 6% in the June 2004 European Parliamentary elections, and predictions abounded that it was the end of the line for the party. However, under its new leader, Heinz-Christian Strache, the FPO surged forward in the Vienna city elections in October 2005, polling 14.9% of the vote. The party is now firmly back on track, and is looking to a substantial increase in votes in the next elections.

- Britain: 808,000 Racially Conscious Votes

The United Kingdom has, for historical reasons, not had a numerically impressive pro-White political party since before the Second World War. The 1970s National Front collapsed after their supporters

continued on page 24

The North Wind has Begun to Blow

continued from page 23

mistakenly put their trust in Margaret Thatcher, and it was only with the ascension of leadership for the British National Party, by Nick Griffin in 1999, that a significant pro-White political presence has been re-established.

This became obvious to the world in the June 2004 European Parliamentary elections, in which the British National Party (BNP) polled 808,000 votes, or just under 5% of the vote — a record high for any pro-White party in British history — and a substantial increase from the 100,000 votes they polled in the 1999 Euro elections. This trend not only held up in the May 2005 general election, but in many areas it actually doubled. A candidate in a London seat polled 16.89% of the vote, missing out of second place by just 30 votes.

- Norway: 748, 000 Racially Conscious Votes

In September 2005, Norway's pro-White populist Progress Party (Fremskrittspartie), which the media always associates to France's National Front, placed second in the September 2005 elections in Norway, polling 22.1% of the vote (748,000 votes) and increasing their parliamentary representation to 37 seats. Its election campaign focused heavily on non-White crime in Norway, and the main election leaflet showed a non-White brandishing a gun.

- Denmark: 444,205 Racially Conscious Votes

In Denmark's 2005 parliamentary elections, the pro-White populist Danish People's Party took 13.3% of the vote, or 444,205 votes, making it the third largest party and allowing it to enter the Danish government as a junior coalition partner. This had the side effect of Denmark introducing what is today the stiffest immigration law in all of Europe.

- Belgium: 980,000 Racially Conscious Votes

The Flemish speaking north of Belgium has the political party Vlaams Belang (Flemish Interest) which is the single largest party in Belgium and polled 24.15% of the vote in Flanders, and 11.6% nationally (around 840,000 votes), giving it 18 members in the Belgian parliament and 5 in that country's senate. The Vlaams Belang was founded in 2004 after its predecessor, the Vlaams Blok, was officially labeled 'racist' by a Belgian court, placing it in legal jeopardy.

The French speaking south of Belgian has rallied their version of the National Front, and during general election of 2003 won a seat in the parliament and senate respectively, polling around 140,000 votes.

- Germany: 853,742 Racially Conscious Votes

In the September 2005 elections, Germany's stridently pro-White National-Democratic Party of German (NPD), in alliance with the Deutsches Volksunie (DVU) polled one of its best results ever, some 853,742 votes. In some states, such as Brandenburg, polled nine percent of the vote, giving it 12 seats in that state parliament. This was significantly up on its previous general election result of 0.22%. The NPD is also building up significant public support in the cities of Dresden and Rostock.

- Sweden: 78,000 Racially Conscious Votes

The Swedish Democrats (SD) are considered by the establishment parties as the Swedish version of France's National Front, and indeed the FN financed the SD's election leaflets in 1999. In the 2002 election, the SD polled 1.4% of the national vote (around 78,000 votes). Recently, a more hard-line group from that party broke away to form the National Democrats. The Nordic Alliance (NA) in Sweden is another political group with increasing significance, and they are very similar to the American National Alliance.

- Switzerland: 518,831 Racially Conscious Votes

The populist, but broadly pro-White, Swiss People's Party, under Christoph Blocher, polled some 23.3% of the vote in the 2003 general election, winning 52 seats and making it the second biggest party in that country and enabling it to enter government as a coalition partner. The more hard-line Swiss Democrats polled an additional 21,351 votes.

- Italy: At Least 6 Million Racially Conscious Votes

The current Italian government is made up of a coalition of groups, mostly right wing populist, but still containing some elements of pro-White nationalism. The most prominent is the Northern League, which polled 1,464,301 votes in the 2001 general election. The Italian National Alliance (no connection to the American National Alliance), founded by a breakaway from the original Fascist Party, the MSI, is another coalition partner, and polled 4,463,205 votes in 2001.

continued on next page

continued from previous page

Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi's Forza Italia (Italian Force) is not considered in the same league, although one of its leading members, Marcello Pera, who is speaker of the Italian senate, told Italians in August 2005 that they risked becoming a "mixed race" because of non-White immigration. In September 2005, Forza Italia MP Guido Crosetto, a member of the House Finance Committee, claimed that Bank of Italy Governor Antonio Fazio, involved in a controversial banking takeover probe, was the victim of a "Jewish-Masonic plot." Prime Minister Berlusconi himself was accused of racism when he stated that Western civilization is "superior" to Islam.

Although Forza Italia polled over 10 million votes, it is unlikely that a great many could be classed as overtly pro-White, hence the conservative estimate of around 6 million racially conscious votes in Italy.

A relatively new group, the Alternativa Sociale (Social Alternative), led by Alessandra Mussolini, is a coalition of Fascist parties, polled 398,036 votes in the European Elections of 2004, winning one seat in that parliament.

Don't Forget Our Slavic Brethren

Although by National Alliance standards, many, if not all, of these Western European parties would not qualify as true hard-line White Nationalists. This is because of the political reality in most of Europe, whereas an organization such as the American National Alliance would be illegal under the "Democratic" laws that currently hold sway.

The figure of 20 million Europeans voting for pro-White populist parties, excludes of course, parties in the former Eastern Block. Most people in Poland are still racially conscious, so it is hard to determine which votes qualify as pro-White and which do not. In Russia, the nation with the second largest amount of White people, the Rodina party (Motherland) and many smaller, openly pro-White parties, poll between 20-25% of the entire nation. The pro-White population in Croatia, Serbia and Greece are quite high and Bulgaria's pro-White Attack party took 8% of the national vote recently. When this is all added in, the figure would climb by many million more: a truly breathtaking reality, and most importantly one which demonstrates that the prophets of doom and gloom, who say the White race is finished, are absolutely wrong.

The National Alliance's Progress as a Barometer in America

Although a successful nationally-based pro-White populist has yet to emerge in America, the progress being made by the National Alliance holds great promise. Despite some hiccups in the course of 2005, the Alliance has retained its position as this country's leading White Nationalist organization, and certainly the single largest distributor of pro-White material, possibly in the world.

Our information outreach occurs every week, through our shortwave American Dissident Voices broadcasts, our Internet web site (www.natall.com), our recently launched daily news Web site (www.natallnews.com), our dedicated teams of leaflet distributors up and down the country, and even our recent breakthrough in getting our "America is a Changing Country" video aired on television in Maryland.

Even this very publication you hold in your hand, is an indication of the growth of the Alliance. Consider that even ten years ago, a full-color, high quality publication such as this would not have been possible, yet now it appears every two months. Our music division, Resistance Records, has grown steadily over the years, and is now, without debate, the largest such operation in the world, now offering music of a wide variety of genres.

In many ways America is the belly of the Beast, and political change in this country is critical for any real change to succeed in any other White country. To achieve this, White Nationalists the world over must leave personal differences and disagreements behind and come together to build an alternative media — such as this magazine — if we are to be successful in our quest to build a New Consciousness; a New Order; a New People. Please think about this carefully. Now is the time to join with us, the National Alliance.

Hurricane Katrina and The Turner Diaries - A Few Startling Parallels

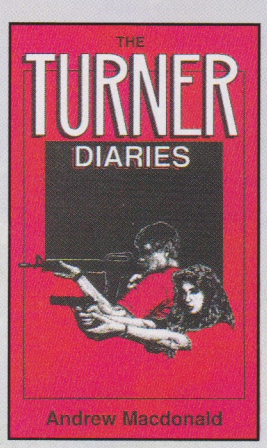
By Kevin Jones

The catastrophic events that have unfolded, and continue to unfold in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina; the initial storm surge, the breech and failure of the levees, the resultant flooding, the massive death toll, the near biblical destruction, and the poor system response to this natural disaster, due mostly to overextended resources in fighting a Zionist War has served to shock and stun a nation. More importantly, the rapid breakdown of social order in this predominantly non-White city; the Black lawlessness, the looting and raping, and the attempted sniping of rescue personal has shocked and angered White people all over the World. White tourists and those few local Whites unlucky enough to had been trapped inside the city in the wake of the hurricane have surely been given an education in "jungle rules". I'm sure those Whites who somehow managed to survive the ordeal have adopted much healthier attitudes toward the races of man. I'll even bet a few of those Whites have adopted much healthier attitudes toward the racially destructive system that now rules them.

In looking at the breakdown of social order following Hurricane Katrina and the system response to that breakdown of order I am reminded of Dr. William Pierce's excellent fictional novel, The Turner Diaries. For those of you unfamiliar with Dr. Pierce's book, here is a brief description: "This is the book which the FBI and the controlled media have been claiming hysterically is the "blueprint" for everything from the Oklahoma City bombing to the takeover of the U.S. government by "White extremists." It is the "Bible" of the "racist right," they say. Certainly, it has received more media attention than any other book in print and is the book most hated and feared by the gun-control crowd. The Turner Diaries is the book proponents of "multiculturalism" and the New World Order have tried desperately to ban from bookstores, so that ordinary Americans won't be able to read it. Too many things predicted in the book have been coming true, they believe, and they're afraid that if more people read the book the rest of it also may (also) come true. Actually, says the author, the book is merely a vehicle, in the form of an exciting novel about urban guerilla warfare and revolution, for his ideas about race and society. You'll have to read it for yourself to see who's right."



To be sure, Hurricane Katrina was a natural disaster and Dr. Pierce's book, The Turner Diaries is a fictional account of race war, but many of Dr. Pierce's extrapolations and predictions seem to be right on the mark. For instance, in The Turner Diaries Blacks do pretty much what Blacks always seem to do when left unchecked; they riot, loot, rape and murder. Immediately after Hurricane Katrina passed through New Orleans, true to their nature, Blacks began looting homes and businesses. Their booty? Surely it must have been much needed food and water. Hardly! Their booty consisted largely of guns, which they would use to terrorize White survivors and White rescue personnel, plasma televisions, assorted electronics, shoes, beer and other non-essential items.

In The Turner Diaries we read about corrupt and immoral Black System officials; Human Relations Council "special deputies," used by the System in an official capacity to terrorize and arrest White civilians. In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina we were witness to footage of Black New Orleans police officers not only failing to enforce the law, but even actively participating in the looting themselves. We read about the White tourists who begged these Black police officers for help only to be told, "Go to Hell. It's every man for himself." In The Turner Diaries we read about organized Black rape gangs terrorizing the White population. Well, it seems Dr. Pierce has been proven right once again. In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina Black gangs formed raping and looting cliques and roamed freely throughout the flooded city.

These Black rapists and looters terrorized the stranded staff and patients in many hospitals and nursing homes. These savages also appear to have operated with near impunity inside the Superdome. Any hapless White women or children caught in their paths and lucky enough to have actually survived has surely experienced a true Hell on Earth. Unfortunately, many of the victims did not live to tell their tale. And it appears that eyewitness accounts of these bestial crimes are still being reported.

In The Turner Diaries we read about bands of Whites forming protective enclaves in order to defend themselves from the marauding and murderous non-Whites. In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina we read about the 30 British students who huddled among the

continued on next page

continued from previous page

thousands in the Superdome. The men in these groups were forced to set up a makeshift security cordon to protect their women and to fend off abusive Blacks. We also read about how, in the predominantly White town of Gretna, Louisiana, police and deputies armed with shotguns managed to stop and turn back a horde of non-Whites about to cross over the bridge and offer Gretna a little taste of some New Orleans style "brotherhood."

According to a CNN report, one of those participating in this Black mob was quoted as saying "What we were told by the deputies is that they were not going to allow another New Orleans, and they weren't going to allow a Superdome to go into their side of the bridge, Gretna." I'm sure the White citizens of Gretna feel they owe an enormous debt of gratitude to those brave police officers who, although outnumbered and quite possibly outgunned, still managed to turn back that vicious tide of non-Whites threatening their city.

In The Turner Diaries Dr. Pierce imagines that the U.S. government's insane Israeli first policies in the Middle East have resulted in gasoline prices at $5.00 a gallon. Well, Dr. Pierce might have been a bit early with this one, but I still think his prediction will ultimately prove to be correct. In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina we have seen gasoline price gouging to the tune of $6.00 a gallon in Atlanta, Georgia. Gas prices have risen drastically in the aftermath of the hurricane and weeks later those prices do not seem to be falling very quickly. At least, from an economic perspective they are not falling enough to matter.

In The Turner Diaries we read how the U.S. government enacts even more draconian laws in an effort to smash "White racism." As the System becomes ever stronger and more oppressive it ultimately victimizes and alienates its own White citizens. Eventually, it even victimizes those White men and women tasked with its defense. In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina we have witnessed unchecked Black lawlessness and violence. The almost unprecedented scale of this Black raping, looting, murdering and the attempted sniping of rescue personnel has staggered and stunned many Whites. When Black lawlessness in New Orleans was finally met with an armed system response, that response was almost immediately reined in by the Bush administration. Enter the controlled media and their Hurricane Katrina poster child, non-White Army Lt. General Russel Honore. Lt. General Honore arrives on the scene as the controlled media reports on relief workers confronted with a situation akin to "urban warfare." Lt. General Honore is glowingly described by the controlled media as a "John Wayne dude" and a "Ragin' Cajun" General. What is this mulatto General's first task? Well, all of the available media clips show this gangly, chain-smoking General constantly yelling profanities at the White troops under his command. Lt. General Honore is even filmed yelling at White law enforcement officers around him to "Get those Goddamn guns down." That's right, a U.S. Army General yelling, not only at his troops, but also at civilian law enforcement officers to "...get those guns down, dammit." Complete madness! Now the controlled media and the Bush Administration are calling for even more laws that will allow the federal government to assume immediate control following any future natural disasters or terrorist strikes. If enacted these new laws will virtually insure that the individual states will have little or no say in matters of their utmost concern.

In The Turner Diaries we read how the U.S. government bans the private ownership of firearms and then stages the mass gun raids to round up suspected gun owners. In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina we have witnessed law enforcement and military personnel conducting house-to-house searches and confiscating legally registered firearms from White civilians, virtually ensuring that these law-abiding Whites will be left at the mercy of the lawless non-Whites.

Finally, in The Turner Diaries Earl Turner's patriotic Organization establishes a foothold in Southern California. The Organization begins evacuating all of the non-Whites out of their area and sending them into System controlled territory. The hero of the book, Earl Turner views these actions as a type of "demographic warfare." The Organization intends for these non-Whites to overload already strained System resources and to make life unbearable for System Whites in the border areas. In the wake of Hurricane Katrina we see the forced evacuation of many Blacks from the New Orleans area.

continued on page 28

Hurricane Katrina and The Turner Diaries - A Few Startling Parallels

from page 27

These New Orleans Blacks are turning out to be some of the worst dregs American society has to offer. These Blacks, many of whom are violent criminal offenders with felony arrest records, are being dispersed all across this once great land. Thanks to many mainstream church groups and a few misguided liberal do-gooders many predominantly White areas in the United States are receiving more than their fair share of these savages. Unfortunately, many unsuspecting Whites are sure to fall prey to the large criminal element disproportionately represented among these new arrivals.

Surely you say, none of these developments can ultimately be considered good for White Americans. True, if we remain passive, if we continue to be spectators, couch potatoes and fence sitters then none of these things can ultimately be considered good for our race. If our people's enemies are left unchecked then we may ultimately face Dr. Pierce's worst "Turner Diaries" nightmare. Dr. Pierce has warned us about these dangers for quite some time and if we continue on our present course our race is sure to experience the horrors of a post-Katrina New Orleans at least a thousand fold. And if the hour becomes too late our Race may experience the ultimate indignation, a not-so-gentle trip into that eternal goodnight.

A gloomy prospect indeed, but perhaps all is not lost. It may seem like a stretch to some, but I really do believe most of the events that have transpired in the wake of Hurricane Katrina will ultimately be good for our race and good for our people. Sure, the couch potatoes will continue to think exactly as the controlled media has conditioned them to think, but I believe these recent events will result in a growing minority of Whites adopting much healthier attitudes regarding many things. The perceptive few have seen the true nature of the beast and many now realize that most non-Whites need little or no excuse to rape, loot and murder. Those Whites trapped in New Orleans by Hurricane Katrina and who somehow managed to survive their hellish ordeals have been given an instant education in Black racism. Many now understand the hatred most non-Whites direct towards all Whites, and it scares the hell out of them to think about how dark their country has become. They have seen their own government, a government they once believed to be all-powerful, unable to offer a proper response to this very predictable natural disaster. They have seen the soft underbelly of the beast and they now know it has its own unique faults and vulnerabilities, vulnerabilities they heretofore were unable to imagine. That scares the hell out of them too. They have witnessed this same government ignore White suffering in an effort to appease non-White agitators. They are watching this same government respond in the way it always seems to respond to Black violence and Black crime; by apologizing to the Blacks, disarming law abiding Whites, scapegoating a few system lackeys, and by dumping mountains of money into a Black abyss. They're also smart enough to know the budget cuts that will be enacted and used to pay off these non-Whites will only hurt White families, and that angers the hell out of them. I also believe the Black refugees being dispersed into predominantly White areas will ultimately have a positive effect and will encourage many additional Whites to develop healthy racial instincts. As I mentioned earlier, many Whites will no doubt suffer at the hands of these Black transplants, but perhaps an occasional bit of suffering is actually healthy for our race. And perhaps, just perhaps that bit of suffering is long overdue.

I would like to encourage anyone unfamiliar with Dr. Pierce's excellent book The Turner Diaries to purchase your own copy and read it cover-to-cover. When you have finished reading the book make sure to pass it along to a few friends. Perhaps you and your friends will also notice some of the same parallels I have noted in this article. More importantly, perhaps you and your friends will notice societal trends Dr. Pierce warned us about when he wrote The Turner Diaries over 25 years ago. And if in the process of reading the book a few catchy ideas happen to sneak their way into your subconscious, well... that won't be too bad either.

As Dr. Pierce liked to remind us, the time for a great cleansing of this land will come. Better to think about these unpleasantries now than put them off until it is too late. To fail to plan is to plan to fail, and I can assure you that failure will be very costly and very unpleasant. If we fail in our task we will pay a very high price indeed. The price for failure will mean the ultimate extinction of our kind.

May we continue to speak out, and may we continue to confront the often-unpleasant realities of our situation in an honest and realistic manner. Being honest and realistic is a burden, but accepting this burden without reservation is the only way to insure we will ultimately prevail in our task!

The Turner Diaries* -- US $ 12.95; 211 pages; Catalog Item: 202 Order from National Vanguard Books, PO Box 330, Hillsboro, WV 24946 or online www.natvanbooks.com

NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS

3,000 Russian White Nationalists Rally in Moscow

More than 3,000 White nationalists rallied in Moscow in November 2005, protesting against non-White immigration into Russia in the biggest such rally in more than a decade, resulting in two march organizers being arrested and fined 500 rubles because in their application for the march, they had said that they expected only half that number to take part. The rally was organized jointly by a half-dozen pro-White groups, including the Movement Against Illegal Immigration and Pamyat. It started outside the Chistiye Prudy metro station and followed a route through the city center. The marchers carried banners reading "Moscow Against Occupiers" and "The Russians Are Coming," and they chanted "Russia for Russians," "Moscow for Muscovites."

Editor in Chief of Austria's Public Broadcaster Attends Freedom Party Ceremony for Luftwaffe War Ace

Liberals in Austria are aghast at the attendance of Walter Seledec, the editor-in-chief of the Austrian public radio and TV broadcasting corporation, ORF, at a memorial service for Luftwaffe War Ace Major Walter Nowotny, at a ceremony organized by the youth wing of Austria pro-White Freedom Party. The ceremony was at Vienna Central Cemetery, where a wreath was placed at the grave of the World War II fighter pilot on the 61st anniversary of his death. Seledec was welcomed bin name from the speaker's platform at the ceremony. He is not only editor-in-chief in the ORF central management, but is also responsible for all ORF-foreign correspondents for 2006.

* Walter Nowotny flew over 442 missions in achieving 258 victories.

White Nationalist Unity in Europe

Pro-White nationalist parties from seven European countries convened in Vienna at the end of last year to join forces in a "patriotic and nationalist parties and movements" unity conference which signed a "Vienna Declaration" calling for a stop to immigration in the entire European Union and the defense of Europe against "terrorism, aggressive Islamism, superpower imperialism and economic aggression by low-wage countries."

The parties were invited and hosted by the Austrian Freedom Party (FPÖ) and included Jean-Marie Le Pen's Front National from France, Alessandra Mussolini's Azione Sociale from Italy, the Spanish Alternativa Española, the Great Romania Party, the Bulgarian party Ataka, and Belgium's largest party, the Vlaams Belang. The Italian Lega Nord, the Danish People's Party and Poland's governing Law and Justice were not present but sent their greetings.

Spain: 1,500 Whites March Against Non-White Immigration Under the Falangist Banner

More than 1,500 Spanish patriots marched in October 2005 in Madrid under the banner of the Falange, protesting against the Spanish government's immigration policy, which has already seen around 5 million non-Whites settled in that country, legally and illegally.

"We are here to protest at the government's immigration policy, which is converting Spaniards into foreigners in their own country," said Fernando Cantalapiedra, 25-year-old leader of the Falange. The more than 5 million foreigners legalized by the government are more of 10% of the population, said the Falange in a press statement issued prior to the rally. "The politicians do not want to hear nor speak of the problem, while the Spanish people suffer the consequences. The foreigners have monopolized social aid, the state housing, day-care centers and the public schools public," continued the Falangist press statement.

"They take advantage of our national health system, while the majority of them are not even listed in the social security system or pay tax. They saturate our hospitals and are the main cause of the current economic crisis. The delinquent immigrants commit 80% of the crime, and gangs who were previously unknown in Spain have turned our streets and districts into places which Spanish people cannot go." The Falange has a reported 8,000 members.

Over 20% of all Violent Street Crime in Helsinki Committed by Somalis

Despite comprising less than one percent of Helsinki's population, Somali 'immigrant' crime in the Finnish capital is reaching epidemic proportions, with over 20 percent of all violent street crimes being committed by 'Somali youths." Police in Helsinki investigated over 550 robberies or attempted robberies in Helsinki last year, of which 120 involved offenders with a "Somali background."

For daily news updates, visit NATIONAL ALLIANCE NEWS on the web at www.natallnews.com

NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS - NEWS SHORTS

Importing Poverty: Hispanic Housing Crisis in NYC

Non-White immigration does not bring with it "improvements to the economy" – instead all it does is import the chaos and poverty of the Third World into America. According to a report issued by the New York State Assembly Puerto Rican/Hispanic Task Force, entitled "Housing Emergency and Overcrowding in New York City, the genesis of anecdotes explored," parts of the city are under a severe housing crisis, characterized by "evictions, no heat and no hot water."

The cause: overpopulation. In the New York metropolitan area, New York City alone has reached 8.1 million residents and there are too few housing units. More than 32,000 adults and children — mostly non-White — sleep in New York City homeless shelters each night, a 50 percent increase since 1998.

According to the United States Conference on Catholic Bishops (USCCB), immigrant children are twice as likely to be poor as native-born children. One in five children under the age of 18 in the U.S. was estimated to have at least one foreign born parent, and one in four poor children had at least one foreign-born parent. Hispanic students also have the highest dropout rates, at well over a quarter (27.8%).

University of Colorado Starts "Center for Western Civilization"

The University of Colorado is to start a "Center for Western Civilization" which will offer a certificate for students who take groupings of classes such as Latin, philosophy and the American Revolution. The Center will add "intellectual diversity" to CU by attracting speakers and forums, said director Christian Kopff, a professor who teaches Greek literature and introduction to the Bible. The center is currently based in Kopff's office, but has plans to move to formal premises as soon as funds allow.

AIDS Sweeps Through Hispanics in America

AIDS is sweeping through the Hispanic community in America, with that group compromising 18 percent of all AIDS cases in the United States in 2003, while making up only 14 percent of the population.

According to the Center for Disease Control's National Center for HIV, AIDS and TB Prevention, in 2001, HIV/AIDS was the third leading cause of death among Hispanic men aged 35 to 44 and the fourth leading cause of death among Hispanic women in the same age group. About 50 percent of all people diagnosed with AIDS in 2003 were non-Hispanic Black.

Although Hispanics make up only about 14% of the population of the United States and Puerto Rico, they account for 18%—almost 164,000—of the more than 886,500 AIDS cases diagnosed since the beginning of the epidemic. By the end of 2002, nearly 88,000 Hispanics had died with AIDS.

24,268 Heterosexual Women Died From AIDS in 2004

According to the Center for Disease Control, some 24,268 females died from HIV/AIDS contracted through heterosexual contact with HIV positive males in 2004, while non-Whites make up 66% of all persons "living with HIV/AIDS" in the same year.

According to the CDC's "The 2004 HIV/AIDS Surveillance Report," Blacks make up the largest group (48%) of "people living with AIDS," followed by Hispanics (17%), American Indian and Asian/Pacific islander (1% each). The CDC also said Blacks accounted for 50% of all HIV/AIDS cases diagnosed in 2004, while 33% of all people who contracted HIV/AIDS in 2004 did so through heterosexual contact.

In 2004, rates of AIDS cases were 56.4 per 100,000 amongst Blacks, 18.6 per 100,000 amongst Hispanics, 7.9 per 100,000 amongst American Indians, 6.0 per 100,000 amongst Whites and 3.7 per 100,000 amongst Asian/Pacific Islanders. Of the estimated 123,405 female adults and adolescents living with HIV/AIDS, 71% had been exposed through heterosexual contact in 2004.

Blacks accounted for 51% of HIV diagnoses during the three years covered in the report though they make up just 13% of the U.S. population. The lesson, especially to White females, is clear: avoid sexual contact with non-Whites.

The Ten Most 'Dangerous' and 'Safest' Cities in America - and their Racial Make-up

The annual "City Crime Rankings" report has been released in which the top 10 most dangerous cities and the top 10 safest cities in America are announced. The ranking is based on a number of factors, including crime rates aggregated out to population size.

The top ten most dangerous are as follows.

1. Camden, New Jersey 84% non-White
2. Detroit, Michigan 88% non-White
3. St. Louis, Missouri 57% non-White
4. Flint, Michigan 59% non- White
5. Richmond, Virginia 62% non-White
6. Baltimore, Maryland 69% non-White
7. Atlanta, Georgia 67% non-White
8. New Orleans, Louisiana 72% non-White
9. Gary, Indiana 89% non-White
10. Birmingham, Alabama 75% non-White

The top 10 most safest cities are as follows:

1. Newton, Massachusetts 88% White
2. Clarkstown, New York 76% White
3. Amherst, New York 88% White
4. Mission Viejo, California 76% White
5. Brick Township, New Jersey 73% White
6. Troy, Michigan 82% White
7. Thousand Oaks, California 78% White
8. Round Rock, Texas 66% White
9. Lake Forest, California 68% White
10. Cary, North Carolina 79% White

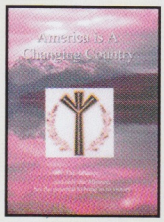
Population statistics taken from the 2000 US Census.

ESSENTIAL VIEWING

The National Alliance prides itself on being the leader in providing information to the racially conscious White community. One way we are able to keep our lead is our willingness to innovate and keep abreast of technology. In this vein, we are proud to present the following brand new additions to our already extensive DVD range, hot off the presses.



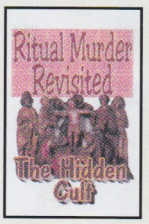
America is a Changing Country DVD
The National Alliance's first full-length video. This inspiring, broadcast-quality video can be played over public-access cable or shown to groups of friends and family. It outlines our plan to break the Jewish stranglehold on the mass media and to regain control of our government. It provides a very brief, effective way to spread our message to others. 51 minutes

George Lincoln Rockwell NS Pioneer DVD
Catalog Item: 260d
US $ 12.95
The life of George Lincoln Rockwell in film. George Lincoln Rockwell was the founder of the American Nazi party in 1959, and had became a household name in America by the time he was assassinated in 1967. This video documents his life and political activity. Includes much rare footage.
73 minutes, color and B&W film

Judea Declares War on Germany DVD
Catalog Item: 1196d
US $ 19.95
This video shows how the very powerful, International Jews, in 1933, started to agitate the world into another World War. Many people think that Germany was hostile to Jews, when if fact it was the Jews that were hostile to Germany.
Color and B&W film
Run time 75 minutes

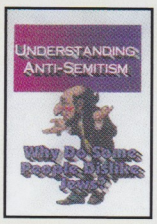
Race & Reality: Guns, Race and Freedom DVD
Catalog Item: 567d
US $ 19.95
Dr. William Pierce on Richmond's Race and Reality TV program. He and host Ron Doggett and a wide variety of callers focus on the attempt by Jews to disarm White Americans, and the steps that we must take to regain freedom for our people. Dr. Pierce makes clear what the media masters want obscured. Color 58 minutes

Rep. Paul Findley, Dares to Speak Out Again DVD
Catalog Item: 1197d
US $ 19.95
US Congressman Paul Findley tells the truth about Jewish Power. When this honest US Congressman wrote his book, "They Dare Speak out" it shook the Washington DC establishment. Rep. Paul Finley doesn't hole back when he talks about the power that the Jews in America and Israel hold over the US government.
Color



Ritual Murder Revisited
Catalog Item: 1198d
US $ 19.95
Jewish Ritual Murder has existed as long as Jews The old, Jewish practice of murdering White children, as part of their religious rituals has sparked anger for over 2,000 years. This religious practice has been covered up in modern times, but yet, the practice continues.
Color video
Run time 75 minutes

Sinking of the Wilhelm Gustloff DVD
Catalog Item: 1192d
US $ 9.95
Dr. William Pierce tells the tragic story of this fated ship When the Wilhelm Gustloff sank in 1945, it was the biggest loss of life for any ship sinking in the history of world, but it has been covered up. Find out why. ADV broadcast turned into video.
21 minutes, color and B&W film



Understanding Anti-Semitism DVD
Catalog Item: 1195d
US $ 19.95
A documentary about Anti-Semitism
Throughout history Jews have enraged the populations of the nations they have lived in. Why does this always happen? This documentary offers many insightful explanations.
Color video.
Run time 110 minutes

Zionist War Crimes DVD
Catalog Item: 1194d
US $ 19.95
The truth behind Israel's brutal treatment of Palestinians
This video documents the horrible conditions that the Jews in Israel have put upon the Palestinians and the massive, violent crimes that the Jews commit against them daily.
Color video
Run time 60 minutes

National Vanguard Books
Box 330, Hillsboro , WV 24946, USA

order online at www.natvanbooks.com

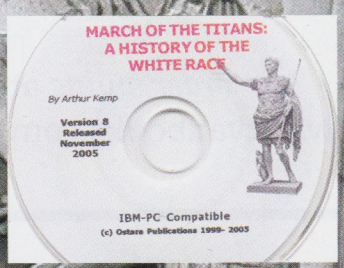
THE TRIUMPH OF EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION

MARCH OF THE TITANS
(mini-disc) New Version 8

Catalog Item: 2061

US $ 18.00

This CD version of Arthur Kemp's epic history of the White race contains the entire book, all 68 chapters plus the full set of appendices. It covers prehistory; early White migrations; the Egyptian, Greek, Roman, Germanic, and Byzantine civilizations; details eight Great Race Wars; the rise of the modern states of Europe; the colonial adventure and the White settlement of the New World; both World Wars; the rise and fall of Communism; the 'Civil Rights' era; and concludes with the demographic changes underway in Europe, America and Australia/New Zealand, which, if left unchecked, will see the final destruction of Western Civilization.



National Vanguard Books
PO Box 330
Hillsboro, WV 24946
Or order online at http://www.natvanbooks.com